COMMITTEE KILLS TAX ON THEATERS AND SOFT DRINKS

Alexander Revenue Measures Voted Down by Big Majority of Ways and Means Body.

INCOME TAX ACT DEBATED BY HOUSE

Friends of Schools Disclaim Responsibility for Goode Amendment to W. & A. Rentals Bill.

With only a scant minority of the ways and means committee supporting it, the bill of Representative Hooper Alexander to place a tax on motion picture theaters, soft drinks and checks was voted down Thursday afternoon at a session called to begin reworking a variety of revenue-raising measures which have been offered during the special session.

Both the soft drink and theater tax were originally included in the amended general tax bill but were stricken out by the committee during the early days of the session. Representative Alexander, who had sponsored the bill to put a tax on written checks, then introduced a separate bill to include soft drinks and negotiable instruments.

The house had, at its morning session, continued debate on the new Boykin income tax act, devoting practically the entire session to discussion of an amendment which would cut the maximum rate on net incomes in excess of $5,000 to 2 per cent.

The senate, after a week of debate, disposed of all pending motor bus and truck legislation and paved the way for action on the Western & Atlantic railroad rental bill which received committee approval Wednesday after an amendment, directing that 50 per cent of the rental bill go to the schools and that the balance be divided 50 per cent on a prorata basis with the institutions and pensioners.

Amendment Comment.
Friends of the common schools took occasion Thursday to deny that they had suggested the Goode amendment, which gives them 50 per cent plus a pro rata share in the balance, or that they expected the assembly to accord the schools any preferential treatment.

Superintendent M. L. Duggan, asked himself as appreciative of the interest of the senate in boosting the amounts which would be received by the schools at the same time insisted that he recognized the serious situation at Milledgeville and Alto and the night of the penitentiaries. The state's school head explained that he only wanted the schools to be treated as fairly, in proportion to their emergency, as the other institutions.

Report of the Battle-Allen bill, approved by a vote of 10 to 4 after the amendment had been adopted, was delayed Thursday due to the absence during the period for receiving committee reports, of Senator George W. Tankford, committee chairman, from the chamber.

It was filed with the secretary of the senate, however, and if not called up on second reading today, under unanimous consent agreement, will be reached for debate until Tuesday of next week.

Motor Carrier Bill.
While the senate anticipates action on the rental bill, the house has three bills, including one approved by the senate Thursday, dealing with motor carriers. One, approved in the senate Wednesday, regulating buses and trucks, was Thursday sent to the railroad committee of the house, where it will be considered next week.

The bill adopted Thursday, which will come to the house today, deals with size, weight, speed and other regulations applying to buses and trucks for hire. It is a committee substitute for one introduced early in the session by Senator Whaley and is a companion measure to the Myrick bill, designed to strengthen and clarify the existing motor carrier act passed in 1920, which the senate approved the day before.

Meantime, the house has on its calendar, ready for consideration when the Boykin income tax bill is disposed of, the Huddleston bill which increases the tax on motor carriers. An effort will be made, proponents of bus legislation.

LEA IS PICTURED AS CHECK KITER BY BANK CASHIER

Officer of Closed Institution Tells of Heavy Borrowings and Unusual Book Entries.

BY RALPH WHEATLEY.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(AP) Colonel Luke Lea, publisher, soldier, politician and social lion, was pictured today by a bank cashier as a kiter of checks for millions and one who used his influence to obtain heavy state deposits which he borrowed from the bank collapsed.

In calm tones, W. S. Chappell, cashier of the broken Liberty Bank took occasion Thursday to deny that he had suggested the Goode amendment, which gives them 50 per cent plus a pro rata share in the balance, or that they expected the assembly to accord the schools any preferential treatment.

Chicago Mayoralty Primary Reaches Heights of Frenzy

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Politics held rancorous carnival in the Chicago loop today.

Only four days until the party primary for mayor, and every major candidate in the rough-and-tumble republican race converged downtown.

It was bedlam all day long as "Big Bill" Thompson, Judge John H. Lyle and Alderman Arthur F. Albert shouted of plots, of gangsters and skulduggery.

EMILY WOODWARD SCORES DRY LAW, STATE CONDITIONS

Pauperized Schools and Debacle of Banks Cited in Speech at Georgia Press Institute.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Georgia Press Institute Thursday night was told by Miss Emily Woodward, editor of the Vienna News and former president of the Georgia Press Association, "we editors are grossly neglecting a grave obligation."

"I do not like to sound a pessimistic note on this happy occasion," Miss Woodward said, "but I cannot be a grinning optimist when serious responsibility confronts me, and unless my vision is blurred by a distorted mind and spirit, we in Georgia and America are on the threshold of what may easily prove to be another tragic era."

Miss Woodward referred to a pernicious tariff, "conceived and executed to fatten purses."

She declared the prohibition law had made of America "into a nation of bootleggers and lawbreakers, a nation whose power is being rapidly delegated to the leaders of the underworld, bootleggers, murderers, thieves and thugs."

"Do not misunderstand me, No one would be happier to see the United States freed from the curse of drunkenness than I. I truly abhor its influence, but under the present plan we have merely substituted the speakeasy and the blind tiger for the saloon, the bootlegger and run-runner for the barkeeper."

Politicians, who "stimulated by highballs and gin fizzes, cast bone dry ballots and make eloquent dry speeches," were cited as an outgrowth of the prohibition law.

"We have hypocrites, the mother of a multitude of evils," said Miss Woodward, "in high places and low."

"And what of our courts? What of justice? Blind? Yes. And about deaf and dumb as well. I do not charge that all who practice in our courts are thus degraded, but I do say that day by day honest lawyers and unimpeachable judges are growing more and more lonely in the crowd."

"The yellow gold which has been declared the root of all evil, is prostituting government courts and pulpits to the minister of filth."

She said the state's financial difficulties, since liquor has been organized on a business basis, to stick to his simple shepherdly duties and Christian path, which has been abundantly present—widows, orphans, the aged and afflicted bereft of her life's savings or inheritance.

"What has our indifference and blind selfishness brought us to in Georgia? Look at our pauperized state institutions struggling and begging for maintenance all the time."

"Look at the shameful role of Georgia's banking institutions. What more soul-stirring tragedy could be unfolded than that which has been enacted in Georgia in recent years. Few, if any of us, have escaped a part in the many devastating episodes of this tragedy, for the scenes have been laid in almost every county in the state."

"If you have followed the thread of this story closely you have not failed to read between the lines, the human pathos which has been abundantly present—widows, orphans, the aged and afflicted bereft of her life's savings or inheritance."

"Look, boldly written through the whole serial is the influence of that conscienceless and merciless Mephisto of the tragedy—cheap and dirty politics."

Miss Woodward called attention to the status of the public schools which she said had been "forced to the sad and shameful role of mendicants."

And that of the state university, which she said "because of the disgraceful system of lobbying, must needs subject its representatives to the indignity of currying favor with politicians to get even the inadequate support it now obtains."

"If the citizens of Georgia and of the press were as alert to our re-

Three Governors of South Enter Potlikker Discussion

Developments in the dunk-or-crumb potlikker controversy blazed into conflagration last Thursday.

Three southern governors who had heretofore been silent issued their pronouncements. Governor Ritchie has decided to wait until the argument has attained the terrapin stage before making a definite statement on Dixie dietetics.

Governor SAMPSON, of Kentucky, stands against dunkerism and all that it implies, and suggests that the south adopt as its national dish the burgo, so often the subject of Kentucky Ed Danforth's boast.

But Governor CARLTON, of Florida, in a smashing burst of logic and eloquence, swept Governor Huey Long's spurious contentions into the discard.

Governor CARLTON went back to King Cole and on past that, historic figure to Biblical utterances. He quotes Elijah on the subject of pottage and meal, now called cornbread. The Florida governor regards a split in southern democracy preferable to a surmising southern traditions by sapping from within.

Here in Atlanta, at a leading department store, potlikker and cornbread were served. Of more than 800 guests served in its restaurant, 600 said "yes" to the potlikker, 200 said "no" and 27 for dunking. And at the Advertising Club, where Mayor Moseley presided at the flowing potlikker bowl, not more than 10 dunkers and 64 crumblers.

From Augusta, Ga., a city with traditions that reach back to the beginning of true southern culture, about 100 city council passed a resolution forbidding the dunking of corn-pones in potlikker within the limits of that city.

One lone dunker, standing out in the crowd like a sore thumb, clung to his heresy in a potlikker and cornpone party Thursday night at 630 Spring street. The other 49 Tech students, crumblers all, explained the plight of the dunkin' one with the statement, "He just doesn't know any better."

Down here most of us are Baptists and we believe that dunking does not go deep enough—that the immersion must be an absolute and a complete submerging so that the process of penitence and seeking may be carried to a triumphant end.

We are also fundamentalists and hold that dunking was instituted by the apostles. This would contentedly second Kings, fourth chapter and forty-first verse that Elijah called for meal and cast it into the pot and thereby banished the noxious potlikker.

ATLANTA BUILDING SOLD FOR $175,000

Eleven-Story Structure on Luckie Street Bought by Florida Capital.

Purchase of the Standard building, formerly known as the McGraw-Bowen building, by Florida capital was announced Thursday. The 11-story office structure located at the southeast corner of Luckie and Fairlie streets was bought by the Peninsula Holding and Investment Company from the Franklin Securities Company, the second consideration was given as $175,000.

The property constitutes a leasehold estate with 43 years to run at an average annual rental of about $8,000, it was stated. It has an annual income from rentals of $45,000 and is nearly completely occupied.

The building fronts 100 feet on Fairlie and 37 feet on Luckie. It was purchased not long ago from the Carolina Life Insurance Company of Columbia by the Franklin Securities Company, of which Bayne Gibson, of Atlanta, is president. The Peninsula Holding and Investment Company, the new owners, is headed by N. B. Estes, of Jacksonville, vice president of the Colonial Bus Lines, in charge of the southeast.

Mr. Estes gave as part payment a residence in Orlando and assumed the loan in addition to the cash consideration. Mr. Estes was in Atlanta Thursday. The building was originally financed by the Miller company and was sold by the bondholders' committee when the concern became defunct. It was erected seven years ago.

Deficiency Bill Given Approval of House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Carrying $39,113,000 for emergencies in government departments and allocations for public buildings appropriated by the House of Representatives today passed the house.

The measure is the last of the 11 big money bills to receive house action necessary to avoid a possibility for a special session.

The sum of $23,068,000 is provided for the veterans administration. The cost limit of more than 300 public buildings was fixed, the money for initial work on them to be drawn from the $20,000,000 lump sum carried in the treasury postoffice department supply bill.

DRY DEMOCRATS MAY DELAY PARTY PROHIBITION STAND

Little Hope Seen for Committee To Write Platform at Meeting on March 5.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Opposition of dry democrats appeared tonight to have discouraged hopes of some party leaders for a definite pronouncement on prohibition at the meeting of the democratic national committee here March 5.

Indications now are that the question will lie over until the national convention next year, with widespread discussion meantime.

Those dominating the party machinery now are convinced that the democrats must stand for a change. Their reasoning is that President Hoover is committed against repeal and will bid chiefly for dry votes, and that this gives the democrats an opportunity to appeal to large states like New York, Illinois and Ohio, where anti-prohibition sentiment appeared to dominate the polls last November.

This reasoning presupposes the south will vote the democratic ticket under any circumstances except those involving religion.

The only question in the minds of party managers now is one of how best to go about their objective. John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, favors outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

It is thought by many democrats that the prohibition issue at the coming meeting of the national committee of the way before the presidential campaign opened.

Some others, however, anti-prohibitionists as well as dry, have argued that party sentiment is not yet crystallized and that it would be a mistake to face that issue now, especially since the national committee could not bind the national convention by any declaration of policy.

One of the factors favored by some anti-prohibition leaders, including Senator Robert F. Wagner, democrat, New York, calls in effect for a national convention to be held at the time of adoption by the national convention of a platform advocating submission of the issue to the states by urging congress to submit a proposed amendment to the constitution repealing the eighteenth amendment. Wagner, for instance, while for repeal of the amendment, is not insistent upon creation attempting to tell the states how they should vote in event repeal is submitted. Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, is understood to hold the same view.

A referendum by this means was endorsed by various members of the "Wickersham" commission, including Chairman Wickersham and one of the driest commissioners, Judge William S. Kenyon.

SPAIN'S PREMIER OUTLINES POLICY TO CALM NATION

Says Great Majority of People Favor Monarchy With Greater Freedom of Parliament.

BY JUAN BAUTISTA AZNAR.

Prime Minister of Spain, Captain of the General Fleet.

(Copyright 1931, by The Constitution, the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

MADRID, Feb. 19.—I shall speak as always, quite clearly and sincerely. I have been a sailor for more than a half century and I am accustomed to plain speaking and discipline.

I shall always live aloof from politics and it is precisely to my non-political character that I owe the honor of presiding over the new government of my country.

As I am outside of parties, and the ministers I have selected belong to all the monarchical parties, the impartiality of our policy is assured. We are monarchists, but we shall respect the opinions of others when these are expressed within the limits of the law.

Will Hold Elections.
First we shall hold municipal elections, then provincial elections, and finally legislative elections, the last of constituent character, with the greatest impartiality and liberality.

The constituent cortes (constitutional assembly) will be bicameral, because the history of parliamentarism shows that the single chamber is always inclined to the abuse of power. I consider it necessary that the chamber of deputies should be subject to check by the senate.

The constituent parliament will be able to revise, renew and reform all the articles of the constitution, and to change the form of government, but always within the law.

The basis of our government program is a deep regard for liberty and absolute respect for the law. We have come to place ourselves at the service of our country and the monarchy, and follow the spirit of pacification altered during the last few weeks by a conciliating but energetic policy when it was a question of maintaining public order.

To Stabilize Money.
We shall proceed to the revision of decrees and laws of dictatorship, but not to sweep them away altogether because some of them have received the support of the economic forces of the country.

Among the decrees of dictatorship which have been postponed previously. He rushed to a microphone and broadcast the story of his Bluebird II-Florida dash to millions over the United Kingdom.

In his radio talk Captain Campbell expressed pride in what he called his "great old car" and paid tribute to his mechanics.

Speaking personally to those who welcomed him at his hotel, he declared that "the American people are true sportsmen."

NO DEMOCRATIC VOTES RECORDED AGAINST BILL

Friends of Measure Expect To Summon Sufficient Votes To Override Hoover.

FACTS ON BONDS VOTED BY CONGRESS

BY UNITED PRESS.

The World War veterans' loan bill authorizes loans by the government to holders of adjusted compensation certificates, in amounts up to 50 per cent of the face or maturity value of the certificates.

There are approximately 3,400,000 certificates, averaging about $1,000 each.

Loans probably will be made through veterans' bureau agencies. Interest will be 4 1/2 per cent. At present loans of $2 1/2 per cent, the value, at 6 per cent interest, are granted.

Estimates of the cost vary from $25,000,000 to more than $1,000,000,000 with most experts admitting that it depends upon how many veterans seek loans.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(UP)—

The senate this evening passed the World War veterans' loan bill. It will go to the White House tomorrow for signature or veto. President Hoover has stated his opposition and a veto is expected. The vote was 72 to 12.

The six-hour afternoon of debate leading up to the vote was devoted to a running fire of criticism, most of it directed against Secretary of Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, foremost opponent of the bill.

The 12 votes cast against the bill were 17 less than would be necessary to override a veto, assuming that the same number of senators were present when a possible veto measure was received. This, according to the bill's advocates, makes almost certain final enactment of the bill if President Hoover sends an outright veto message back to the senate before adjournment at noon on March 4.

Fears of some supporters of the bill that the measure would be killed by a pocket veto, according to a White House announcement that the president would take positive action.

Large Crowds.
The crowds which jammed the galleries throughout the day, many of them standing and few leaving even for lunch, remained to the end.

At 5 p. m., according to 10 minutes for each senator. Under this ruling various speakers hurled barbed shafts of wit at Mellon. Senator T. H. continued in Page 8, Column 8.

Senator Myrick Gives Modified Version of His 'Dunking' Methods

Faced with a threatened investigation by his colleagues into remarks he uttered in defense of dunking cornbread into potlikker, Senator Shelby Myrick, of Savannah, Thursday night issued a statement modifying his line-up with Governor Huey Long and declaring he would welcome the senate probe.

Senators Williams and Paulk, stirred by the position taken by the Savannah member of the upper house, introduced a resolution Thursday asking the president to appoint a committee of three to inquire into the Myrick stand. President Neill sent it to the committee on the state of the republic.

"I assume," Myrick said in his statement, "that this resolution comes from senators who have been reading some old book on table manners and who are in favor of crumblings.

Crumblers, Dunkers Alike Enjoy Delectable Dish

"In view of its introduction, however, and the great amount of criticism from all parts of the country I deem it necessary to make my position clear.

"First: To those critics who have jumped on me for mentioning such a plebeian subject in the august and dignified senate and thereby killing time. My answer to them is the necessity which arose to conduct a filibuster on my bill. Cornpone and potlikker, dunked or otherwise, saved that bill from defeat.

"Second: To those who want to know what a senator from aristocratic Savannah knows about potlikker and cornpone anyway. I have lived in Savannah for 34 years yet I was born in the red hills of middle Georgia and fed and raised on good, old-fashioned corn bread and potlikker like other Georgia crackers. Savannah is a 'real honest-to-goodness' part of Georgia, there before the rest of the state was heard of and we love Georgia and our potlikker, and all other kinds of likker, as much as the hill billyes.

"As for favoring dunking: Crumblings makes a mucky soup wherein both the flavor of the likker and the bread is lost. My method of dunking probably differs from the dunking of Governor Long and I believe that Dorothy Dix, Will Rogers and even Governor Roosevelt will agree with me.

"The likker should be placed in a medium-sized bowl or plate and a soup spoon should be held in the right hand. The cornpone, of medium length and size, should be gripped firmly in the left hand and gently and slightly dipped into the likker just one time. Thereafter, one should alternate between a spoonful of likker and a bite of bread, a method which preserves the flavor of both likker and bread.

"As for the investigation, I say, in the words of the poet: 'Lay on, Mc Duff, and damned be he who first cries, enough.'

IT'S FINE SCHEME SAVE FOR DUNKING

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(P) Men who dunk or crumble because they are hungry, not because it's an issue, will cast their votes and their cornpones into potlikker here tomorrow.

Some 150 unemployed, working at an American Legion woodyard here, will be fed a big meal of potlikker and cornpones. To complete the true southern touch, Mississippi river catfish will be available in quantities.

and the people did eat of same without pain or ache. We furthermore hold that old Esau must have followed crumblings for we learn that when tempted by the mess of pottage, he 'tumbled' which in the original Hebrew is the equivalent of our present 'crumblings.'

Moreover, we believe that even good old King Cole, who called for his bowl likewise specified that it should be filled with potlikker a la crumble because his hands were busy with his pipe and he had no time for dunkin'. Indeed, here in Florida we do not recognize the term dunking in polite society—the nearest approach to it being the final step in partaking of potlikker when we use cornpone to clean the platter, but we call this 'sopping' and not dunking. There, I, as governor of Florida, take my stand with the prophets, with The Constitution, with the plain common people and with the Baptists.

The old Mason and Dixon line was really the dividing line between cold bread and hot cornpone and potlikker and we live below that line, must resist to the utmost the encroachments of modernism. The south must uphold 'crumblings' and must dunk the dunkers. We must show Governor Long that while he may know his pajamas, he is all wet on potlikker.

I do not share the apprehensions evidenced in the statement of Governor Pollard, of Virginia, on this subject. I am most profoundly convinced that it ill behooves any governor of the south to evade this issue.

We must stand up for our potlikker and the orthodox method of its consumption even though it splits the democratic party and perpetuates Hooverism.

DOYLE E. CARLTON, Governor of Florida, Tallahassee, Fla., Feb. 19, 1931.

AUGUSTA COUNCIL BARS DUNKING OF CORNPONE

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 19.—(P)—Augusta today officially became a cornpone crumblings municipality.

The city council adopted an ordinance prescribing this method of eating cornpone and potlikker as the only legal manner here.

Councilman Lon Lamar Fleming, a former Columbia county legislator, who knows how 'potlikker ought to be eaten,' introduced the anti-dunking ordinance at the meeting called to swear in C. C. Murphey, newly-elected councilman.

Councilman C. W. Killebrew, who succeeded the crumblings ordinance, said that as a former resident of Glascock, he knew all about potlikker.

Mayor W. D. Jennings, a native of Edgefield county, South Carolina, gave the ordinance his hearty support.

Councilman Bob Coffin was the only supporter of the dunkers, who said he preferred to soak his bread.

The ordinance said, among other things, that Augusta's prominence as a winter resort made it imperative that 'winter visitors here be given information by us natives on the best way to eat potlikker and cornbread.'

ADVOCATED AS CONSOMME BY GOVERNOR OF ALABAMA

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 19.—(P)—Governor B. M. Miller today raised the lowly 'potlikker' to social eminence by advocating it as a hot consomme for the tired business man's lunch.

"Fresh string beans boiled with a spot of Alabama ham will furnish a delightful consomme to serve piping hot at luncheon," the governor said, "which to my mind eliminates the 'dunk or crumble' problem as far as Alabama is concerned."

FLORIDA GIRL CALLED TO TELL OF MURDER

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 19.—(P) Gretchen Gregory, 19-year-old former Sunday school teacher, today was summoned before a circuit court grand jury which is investigating the mysterious death of Henry Hicks Moore. Moore, a young married man, was shot to death while parked in an automobile with Miss Gregory January 31 on the bluffs east of the city.

Miss Gregory, who told police that two holdup men appeared suddenly and killed Moore with one shot, was exonerated by a coroner's jury, after having been technically charged with murder.

General Pershing, Foch In Sharp Controversy Over Program for War

Foch Asserts Rights as Commander-in-Chief of Allies—Pershing Sees Allies Ready To Go To Any Length To Get Our Troops in Their Arms—"I'll Take the Risk," Says Pershing—Pounds Table, "Won't Be Coerced."

BY GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING.

"I am commander-in-chief of the Allied armies in France," said General Foch, rising in the conference of the supreme war council at Abbeville, May 4, 1918, "and my appointment has been sanctioned by the signature not only of the British and French governments but also by the president of the United States. Hence, I believe myself in a position to insist."

"There is a program signed by Lord Milner and General Pershing at London. I ask to be made a party to this arrangement, since America has given me the strategic direction of the war, or else I have no reason for holding the position."

"So I ask that an agreement be made this evening among Lord Milner, General Pershing and myself, extending to June what has been decided on for May."

"I cannot forget the responsibilities weighing on me, because of the fact that the Allied governments have entrusted to me the direction of operations in France."

"Of course all present knew that no authority to dictate regarding such matters had been conferred upon him, and his remarks only showed that the Allies were ready to go to almost any length to carry their point."

Premier Clemenceau then said he agreed with General Foch and favored an American army, but that the Germans were at Versailles-Bretonneux and if the lines were broken there they might quickly arrive under the walls of Paris and liaison between the Allied armies might have to be established on the Loire, or if the lines were pierced at Hazebronne the enemy could reach the sea.

"What is important for the morale of our soldiers," he said, "is to tell them that the American soldiers are arriving, but to show them that they have arrived."

In other words, smaller American units should be put in French divisions. He referred to the help the French were giving the British, who had to suppress ten divisions.

"It is essential both in May and June when we shall be short of drafts that we should have men," Continuing, he said, "We have no right to order the American government to act in that way, but what we want is to attract its attention to the gravity of the situation," and he did not think I would refuse to listen.

In my opinion the plan proposed was entirely unsound, and I thought that the best and quickest way to help the Allies would be to build up an American army. Moreover, the implied presumption that the council might dictate to us either as a council or through the Allied commander-in-chief in the arbitrary manner indicated set me more firmly than ever against American units serving in Allied armies. The day's discussion made it quite clear that both Allies intended to get commitment to the proposed schedule as far into the future as possible.

Saw Pershing Opposing Wilson. A telegram sent by the British secretary of state for foreign affairs, April 8, 1918, to Lord Reading, British ambassador at Washington, said: "It is evident from the brief account of the conversation that General Pershing's views are absolutely inconsistent with the broad policy which we believe the president has accepted. The main difference, of course, is that we interpret it as meaning that 400,000 infantry and machine guns are to be brigaded with French and British troops in the course of four months. General Pershing admits no such obligation and does not conceal the fact that he disapproves of the policy."

A second and minor difference is that, while the British government quite agrees as to the propriety of ultimately withdrawing American troops brigaded with the French and British so as to form an American army, they do not think this process could or ought to be attempted until the end of the season for active operations this year draws to its close, say in October or November.

I am unwilling to embarrass the president, who has shown such a firm grasp of the situation, with criticisms of his officers. But the difference of opinion... is so fundamental and touches so nearly the issues of the whole war, that we are bound to have the matter cleared up.

At Mr. Clemenceau's suggestion the meeting of the council was adjourned at this point that Foch, Lord Milner and I might meet and examine the question, and see if some agreement could not be reached. Whereupon we repaired to an adjacent room and went over the whole subject again.

My proposal was more liberal than the circumstances or my own views on the subject really warranted. It conceded priority for a limited number of infantry and machine gun units, but, generally, it contemplated the shipment of artillery for divisions and corps, and railway troops, mechanics and labor troops for the service of the rear, all of which were badly needed. It was the distinct understanding, however, as already promised by Foch, that if we would consent to make the concession as to infantry and machine gun units the French would help us out with artillery when the time came to form an American army. But of course they could not furnish men for other services nor for the services of supply, without which we could not function as an army.

When we met, Milner and especially Foch insisted that the war would be lost unless their program was carried out. I repeated the arguments already presented to the council and added that I fully realized the military emergency but did not think the plan to bring over untrained units to fight under British and French commands would either relieve the situation or end the war.

of for training recruits under the most favorable circumstances, even for French warfare, had been nine weeks. The time that would be consumed in travel, the untrained arrivals could not be ready before August, while the trained drafts would become available.

Pershing Ready To Take Risk. Here Foch said: "We are willing to risk our being driven back to the Loire."

I said: "Yes, I am willing to take the risk."

"Moreover, the time may come when the American army will have to stand the brunt of this war, and it is not wise to fritter away our resources in this manner. The morale of the British, French and Italian armies is low, while, as you know, that of the American army is very high, and it would be a grave mistake to give up the idea of building an American army in all its details as rapidly as possible."

Then Foch again said that the war might be over before we were ready. He said: "You can't hedge him an inch. In my opinion, he saved by the plan he had suggested, but that we must build up an American army, and concessions for the time being meet the present emergency were all that I would consent to."

At about this juncture, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Clemenceau and Premier Orlando, of Italy, evidently becoming impatient, walked into the room. Milner met Lloyd George at the door and said in a stage whisper behind his hand: "You can't hedge him an inch."

Lloyd George then said: "Well, how is the committee getting along?" Whereupon we all sat down and Lloyd George said to me: "I see that the war will be lost unless we get this support?" which statement was echoed in turn by Clemenceau and Orlando. In fact, all five of the party attacked me with all the force and prestige of their high positions.

But I had already yielded to their demands as far as possible without disrupting the plans toward which we had been striving for over a year, and a continuance of May shipments into Italy, without any provision for transporting artillery and auxiliary and service of supply troops, could not be granted without making it practically impossible in the future to have an American army.

After I had gone over the whole situation again and stated my position, they still insisted, whereupon I struck the table with my fist and said with the greatest possible emphasis, "Gentlemen, I have thought this program over very deliberately and will not be coerced."

This ended the discussion in committee, and when the council reconvened, Mr. Clemenceau stated that the question of American troops would be taken up again on the following day. The council then examined a number of questions. Among them was that of suppressing divisions in other theaters of the war in order to obtain extra men for the western front and save the tonnage required for their supply.

The next question taken up was that of Italian reinforcements for France. Premier Orlando spoke at some length on the critical situation on the Italian front and how the Austrians were well prepared and were about to attack again and that Italy could not spare any troops for service in France. This brought up the question of General Foch's authority over the Italian army. Premier Orlando said that the Italian commander-in-chief would have to be consulted before Italian troops could be taken as reinforcements elsewhere.

Italy Accepts Unity of Command. He failed to recall that it was the prompt action of the French and British in sending troops to Italy after Caporetto that probably saved the Italian army. However, after further conversation on the following day, he agreed that the western front should be considered as extending from the North sea to the Adriatic, and accepted the principle of unity of command, but he specifically reserved the right of the Allied commander to appeal to his government if any orders from Foch should be inimical to the general interests of Italy.

When the council met for the afternoon session of the second day, the discussion of shipments of American personnel was at once resumed. General Foch spoke at length, repeating previous arguments and giving a rather grandiose dissertation of the Allied situation and the dire things that would happen unless the Americans agreed to the proposal of the council. In his remarks he said: "I have been selected as commander-in-chief of the Allied armies by the governments of the United States of America, France and Great Britain, and my command has been extended to embrace the Italian army. In that capacity it is impossible at the most perilous stage of the great battle of the war not to give expression to my views on the question of disposal of American troops."

"That is why, feeling the very heavy responsibility that rests upon me, at the time when the greatest German offensive is now threatening Paris and our communications with Great Britain through Calais and Boulogne, I expressly insist on each of the governments taking, in its turn, its portion of responsibility. In rather a dramatic way he went on to say that he thought it absolutely necessary that 120,000, or more, if tonnage permitted, American infantrymen and machine gunners should reach France monthly, by right of priority, at least during May, June and July. Losses of the French and British had been greater, he said, than in any previous offensive of the war and could not be replaced, while on the other hand, he asserted, Germany could furnish from 500,000 to 600,000 replacements for her armies, and he most earnestly requested the council to submit a statement to President Wilson on the subject.

He fully appreciated my remarks, he said, but the situation would not warrant any delay, as the greatest of German armies was making the most determined offensive of the war against Amiens and Ypres, and the issue of the war itself might depend upon the success of the enemy before either of these objectives.

Mr. Lloyd George in turn spoke at some length. He asserted that the Germans hoped to use up the British and French reserves before they were exhausted and that the British had already called up nearly 7,000,000 men for their army and navy and had extended their age limits to all men between 18 and 50 years of age. "If the United States does not come to our aid," he said, "then perhaps the enemy's calculations will be correct. If France and Great Britain should have to yield, this defeat would be honorable, for they would have fought to their last man, while the United States would have to stop without having put into line more men than little Belgium."

Possibly realizing the unfairness of the comparison he quickly went on to say that he was sure I was doing my best to meet the emergency, and that: "General Pershing desires that the aid brought to us by America should not be incompatible with the creation of the American army as rapidly as possible."

"I, too, am counting on the existence of that army, and I am counting on it this very year, to deal the enemy the final blow. But to do that the Allies will have to hold out until August."

Tomorrow: Agreement on movement of United States troops is affected by war council.

BUTLER REPEATS HE WILL RETIRE

Fiery Marine Makes Two Speeches in Quaker City and Refers to "Mess."

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Major General Smedley D. Butler, who recently got himself into a "jam," as he calls it, came back to Philadelphia today and made two speeches.

The peppy marine commander did not mention the Mussolini incident which resulted in his being ordered up for court-martial and his subsequent apology, but in his talks he referred to "jams" and "messes" and let his hearers make their own guesses.

First off the reel when he arrived early in the day, he repeated what he had said at Buffalo last night, that he intended to retire from the marine corps to go on the lecture platform. As to his speech at the Contemporary Club here, which resulted in the United States making an apology to Italy—not a word.

At the Northeast Public High school, the general was greeted by the students like a hero, just back from the war and after his talk General Butler was presented with a loving cup as the most popular speaker at the school in the last year.

Later he made another speech at the Penn Athletic Club, where he was a guest of honor.

"The marines are always prepared for war or peace," said the fiery general. "But in time of peace their greatest difficulty is in quieting the temper within and remaining diplomatic. And sometimes the marine has diplomacy forced upon him."

"It seems that as soon as a man puts on a marine uniform, he gets a chip on his shoulder and dares folks to knock it off. Come down to Quantico and see what I mean."

General Butler leaves tomorrow for Pittsburgh, where he speaks Saturday night. He will return to Quantico Sunday.

MITCHELL FAVORS TAPPING OF WIRES

Attorney-General, However, Says He Will Limit Practice Somewhat.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The limited use of wire tapping by all justice department enforcement agencies—including the prohibition bureau—was approved today by Attorney-General Mitchell.

He told the house expenditures committee of a new wire tapping order issued on January 10, four days after the committee adopted a resolution ordering its present inquiry into practice.

Before that time, Mitchell said, a bureau of investigation regulation had prohibited wire tapping and agents who violated the rule were subject to dismissal. The prohibition bureau, however, had no such regulation.

In his new order, the attorney-general told an assistant, G. Aaron Youngquist, that "the present condition in the department cannot continue." He instructed that wire tapping be permitted only in "specific cases" after it had been approved by the head of the bureau involved and the assistant attorney-general in charge.

"I was not prepared on January 10 to lay down an ironclad rule and I am not prepared to do that now," he told the committee. Prohibition Director Woodcock subsequently approved the new regulation.

"Has wire tapping in any particular case been approved by the prohibition bureau since that order?" Representative Montet, democrat, Louisiana, asked.

"Yes, in three cases," Youngquist replied. "I approved three in the absence of Mr. Woodcock."

Representative Schaffer, republican, Wisconsin, an anti-prohibitionist, was author of the committee resolution which brought the investigation. When Mitchell finished his testimony, Schaffer said he wanted to "congratulate the attorney-general on his order of January 10."

Earlier, Schaffer had insisted the new regulation should carry the stipulation that agents who tap wires without permission of their superiors would be dismissed.

"That sort of a provision is not necessary," Mitchell said. "If we have regulations and an agent does not obey them, dismissal is the natural result."

Mitchell made clear his opinion that "wire tapping as a general practice ought not to be permitted." He said that since law violators were using every means possible to avoid detection, the law enforcement forces should not be handicapped by flat regulations.

"I would prefer to deal with individual cases," he testified. Schaffer frequently had criticized the prohibition bureau for tapping wires in states which have laws prohibiting the practice.

"In so far as I have been able to ascertain," Mitchell asserted, "no state statute ever has been held to apply to a federal agent. I believe wire tapping is quite generally used by police agencies throughout the country. If you are going to go into the ethics of wire tapping you will have to study other things such as eavesdropping."

Woodcock declined to call any agents in his bureau "wire tappers." He said there were a number of men in the bureau who "supervise wires for the obtaining of evidence."

Singer Who Won Italy Passes in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Hill Giaccaglia, who cherished memories of the first American success in Italian opera, is dead.

The toast of Milan half a century ago, as Annetta Giaccaglia, she became a brilliant trail for Americans in a land where only the greatest voices succeed. She died Monday at her home here and was buried yesterday.

Yellowed clippings, faded medals, some tattered silken Italian poets, were left as mementoes of her triumphs.

SENATE CONCLUDES FOOD PRICE PROBE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Testimony that retail prices of beef have increased during the past 11 years while the prices of meats have declined concluded the senate's investigation of food costs.

The committee received a mass of statistics at its final session, however, showing the prices of meats, both wholesale and retail, have declined sharply during the past two years.

Despite this decline, the figures indicated the disparity between wholesale and retail prices is greater than ever before.

The only witness representing the retailers, David Van Gelder, of the National Retail Meat Dealers' Association, testified the cause of this disparity is due to higher overhead costs and the consumers' demand for better meats.

Declaring the producers are getting a smaller percentage of the consumers' dollar than in past years, F. E. Molin, secretary of the American National Livestock Association, "blamed chain stores for increasing the marketing costs of meat and preventing declines in retail prices."

As the hearings ended Chairman Capper said the testimony indicated broad prices are too high and milk and meat prices are higher than they should be in some cities.

There was nothing to show sugar prices are out of line, however, he added.

The committee chairman said a report would be submitted by the end of next week.

NEW SPANISH LEADERS TO CALL EARLY VOTE

BY CLARENCE DUBOSE.
MADRID, (By Telephone to London), Feb. 19.—(AP)—Spain's new cabinet, headed by Premier Juan Bautista Aznar, in its first official meeting tonight, decided on the calling of elections and the establishment of a constitutional convention as soon as possible.

Other important policies are a plan to give administrative independence to the Catalonian district and another to better the status of the peseta, Spanish monetary unit.

As the first important matter the cabinet will fix dates for municipal, provincial and parliamentary elections in their respective order, the government promising complete sincerity in all.

Then the ministry will turn its attention to improving the value of the peseta, will revise some of the repressive acts decreed under the seven-year dictatorship of Primo De Rivera, and will present a bill in the new parliament for administrative independence of Catalonia.

This is intended to aid in solving the Catalonian problem, which has always been a real problem for Spanish officialdom. There long has been a movement for separation in this area, of which the great city of Barcelona is the capital.

An official statement said the government wished to give the people utmost liberty but would not permit any attempts to disturb public peace.

ILLINOIS "FINANCIER" FACES 8 INDICTMENTS

BELVIDERE, Ill., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Albert W. Benham, former "financier," who paid his neighbors high interest rates on borrowed sums, was at liberty tonight under $12,000 bonds following his arrest on eight indictments voted by the Boone county grand jury.

Benham, who announced two weeks ago that he was "broke," surrendered today to Sheriff Floyd Smith. Counsel provided bond for his release. Benham claimed to have bought and sold bankrupt merchandising stocks for "quick turn profits." His assets have been unofficially estimated at $80,000 and his liabilities at $400,000.

Dead 10 Months, Woman "Convicted" of Murder

SANTA ANA, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The superior court held today Adele Ritchie was guilty of murder in the slaying of Doris Murray Palmer, Laguna Beach society leader, and her relatives could not benefit from a legacy left by Mrs. Palmer to the former actress. Miss Ritchie committed suicide after the shooting which occurred in April, 1930.

The decision brought to a close a sensational hearing in which Miss Ritchie, although dead nearly a year, virtually was placed on trial for the death of her friend.

Relatives of the former actress, who was the wife of Guy Bates Post, the actor, sought to obtain the proceeds of a $10,000 insurance policy and $500 in jewelry which had been willed to her by Mrs. Palmer. Heirs of Mrs. Palmer opposed it on the grounds the actress was a murderess and could not benefit from her victim's estate.

RUSSIAN DOMINATION SEEN BY FRENCHMAN

Parmentier Says 5-Year Plan
Is Already 75 Per Cent Successful.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Jean Parmentier, noted French economist who was one of the principal authors of the Dawes and Young plans, said today that in a few years soviet Russia would be in position to launch an economic offensive which would ruin countries such as Great Britain and Germany, living largely on their export trade.

This statement of M. Parmentier, who has just returned from a visit to Russia, was printed in the newspaper Le Matin.

He declared that the famous five-year plan, of which the world has heard so much, is already from 75 to 80 per cent successful and that the economic offensive would come in a few years.

When the plan is fairly realized, he said, it is permissible to suppose that Russia will produce 17,000,000 tons of iron annually, of which she will be able to export 9,000,000 or 10,000,000 tons—more than double the amount before the war.

The only witness representing the retailers, David Van Gelder, of the National Retail Meat Dealers' Association, testified the cause of this disparity is due to higher overhead costs and the consumers' demand for better meats.

Dr. Albert A. Michelson Begins Final Experiment With Light

BY EVERETT H. TIPTON.
SANTA ANA, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP) Dr. Albert A. Michelson, 78, first American physicist to be awarded the Nobel prize for scientific achievement, today began his final experiment.

More than two years ago he flashed light from mountain top to mountain top near here and measured its speed as 186,255 miles per second. He believes there was a slight error in his computations, probably not more than a mile per second, but he must eliminate this error, however small, so his measurement will stand for all time.

"When that is done," he said, "I'll rest on my oars."

The scientist's health has been failing of late.

Dr. Michelson has had a vacuum tube three feet in diameter and one mile long constructed on a ranch near here at a cost of $50,000. It is made of corrugated steel pipe.

The pipe is enlarged at each end to hold mirrors which reflect light from an arc lamp back and forth through the tube 10 times. A small octagonal wheel, each of its eight faces a polished mirror, turns at a speed of 512 revolutions a second, flashing the light through the tube.

The light completes its 10-mile trip and strikes the same face of the wheel that flashed it.

The wheel, however, has moved slightly before the light returns and it strikes at a different angle than that at which it left. It is this angle, calibrated in connection with the known distance and timed speed of the wheel, which measures the speed of light.

Lengthy computations must be made after the tube tests.

PRINCE OF WALES REACHES BOLIVIA

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales and his royal party reached this capital at 2:37 o'clock this afternoon after a trip last night and this morning over the beautiful waters of Lake Titicaca.

The British group left Puno, Peru, yesterday afternoon in a lake steamer, bound for Huacui, Bolivia, port at the opposite end. From Huacui they had rail journey through the Andes to La Paz.

After arrival at the palace provisional President Carlos Blanco y Galindo decorated the Prince of Wales and his youngest brother, Prince George, with the grand order of the condor of the Andes as acclamation shouts resounded through the presidential palace from the street, where thousands had gathered.

From the moment they stepped from their special train at Plaza station, the princes were in the midst of an enthusiastic populace that impeded their progress to the palace.

SOVIETS DENOUNCE FORCED WORK CHARGES

Russians Declare Freedom
Is Main Spring of Red System.

MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Factory workers held mass meetings throughout the soviet union today in a national protest against charges abroad that "forced labor" was being utilized in Russia.

Indignant resolutions denying the charges were adopted by the factory employees. At Archangel, on the Baltic sea, in the lumber district, 93 lumberjack delegates in the regional soviet issued a statement denying compulsion. The charges abroad, particularly in the United States, have been aimed at alleged forced labor in lumber camps.

The lumberjack statement, issued "on behalf of 160,000 lumber workers," flatly denied compulsion. It entered formal protest against British, American and similar attack abroad on the soviet workers' system.

Other resolutions passed by the factory workers declared that not only were the forced labor charges false, but that "freedom of the workers exists only in the soviet union."

FAVORABLE REPORT ON UNDERWOOD SEEN

Senate Judiciary Subcommittee Expected To Act Today.

Recommendation that a favorable report be made on the nomination of E. Marvin Underwood to be federal judge for the northern district of Georgia is expected to be made by a senate judiciary subcommittee today following a formal hearing in Washington on protests filed against the nominee.

Indications Thursday night were that the charges against Mr. Underwood would collapse when the protestants were given a chance to appear before the committee today, as Washington dispatches stated that neither Mrs. J. E. Andrews, S. J. Walker and E. L. Lummox, the only three persons to oppose the nomination, have announced their intention of appearing before the subcommittee to attempt to prove their charges.

Mr. Underwood is in Washington and will be at the hearing accompanied by Senators William J. Harris and Walter E. George, of Georgia. Both of the Georgia senators are expected to ask the subcommittee to recommend a favorable report on the nominee.

Senator Felix Hebert, chairman of the subcommittee, said Thursday night that he had no information regarding the appearance of those who have protested against confirmation of the nominee.

Should the subcommittee recommend a favorable report on Mr. Underwood it is quite probable that the report would be made to the senate today by the judiciary committee and that Mr. Underwood will be confirmed Saturday. Senate rules require that a vote on confirmation not be taken until 24 hours after a report has been out of a committee.

'COMMUNITY KITCHEN' DANCE DRAWS THROU

Several hundred couples Thursday night attended the first two dances given under the auspices of a number of affiliated clubs, at the Shrine mosque for the benefit of the Atlanta Community Kitchen, on Nassau street, which for several months has been feeding the poor.

The second dance will be given tonight.

Hamilton McWhorter, as special representative of Governor-elect Richard B. Russell, led the grand march at Thursday night's ball. Henry B. Miller acted as director of the event. In addition to dancing those present were entertained by 12 vaudeville acts while the orchestra rendered a number of special musical selections.

Tonight's ball will be opened by Mayor James L. Key. The entire proceeds from both affairs will go toward the maintenance of the Community Kitchen. Mrs. L. B. Banks is general chairman of a group of women sponsoring the two events. Mrs. Arthur Hazard is ticket chairman and Mrs. Nat Kaiser is publicity chairman.

Tickets for tonight's dance are on sale at the Nineteenth Hole Golf course, 263 Peachtree street. After 5 o'clock this afternoon they will be available at the mosque.

BOARD TO DISCUSS REPAIR FUND USES

Members of the Atlanta board of education will attempt to wrest from Raymond R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, the allocation of $242,000 in the repair and replacement account of the Atlanta board of education and will stage a ward fight for placing of the fund at a special called meeting of the board of education at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The session was called by W. W. Gaines, president, in accordance with a tentative decision of the board at its last session, and prospects were that the funds will be divided as to ward lines without regard to the urgency of the need for improvements. No attempt will be made to form a budget for operation of the schools, because of the fact that the revised budget calls for expenditure of about $3,500,000 while the actual amount set up for school purposes is $2,600,000. This leaves a deficit of approximately $900,000.

Heretofore the board has left the matter of repairs to Ritchie, but because the repair accounts are insufficient to meet the demands, it was decided to give the entire board a voice in deciding what improvements and repairs are to be made.

METHODIST COUNCIL MEETS HERE MONDAY

Approximately 200 ministers and laymen are expected to attend the meeting of the men's council of the Atlanta conference, Methodist Episcopal church, which will open at 10 o'clock next Monday morning at the Central Methodist Episcopal church on West Mitchell street. The meeting will be preceded by a mass meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the W. R. R. Memorial church, Greenberry avenue and Mildred street.

The meeting, sponsored by the Ministerial Union of the Atlanta conference and the local Methodist churches, will comprise three sessions Monday—the morning session to be followed by dinner at noon in the church basement. At 6 o'clock a "fellowship banquet" will be given and the council will come to a close with another public meeting at the Central church.

The council will be presided over by F. T. Keeney, resident bishop of the Atlanta area. Speakers will include Dr. Bert E. Smith, of Chicago; Dr. Darnell Tippet, of New York city; and Dr. W. L. McDowell, of Philadelphia. Signor Mario Cappelli, Italian-American concert tenor, will be featured.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Cough

Medical writers agree that the important point in the treatment of a cold, or cough due to a cold, is to relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thereby preventing serious complications which may follow a neglected cold. To stop this congestion calomel was the accepted and standard remedy until Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablet, was introduced.

Now that science has robbed calomel of its noxious and dangerous, making it pleasant to take and perfectly safe for general use, over forty million Calotabs are consumed in the U. S. yearly with only the most pleasant and satisfactory results. In millions

Georgia Women Dedicate Tree to George Washington

A mimosa tree was planted Thursday afternoon in Piedmont park in commemoration of the birth of George Washington. In the group gathered at the tree are, from left to right: Mrs. Victor Kriegerhaber, Dr. B. D. Gray, Mrs. B. D. Gray, Mrs. John F. MacDougald, and Mrs. L. O. Freeman. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Dedication of a mimosa tree to the memory of George Washington, first president of the United States and hero of the Revolution, followed the annual district club institute of the fifth district of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs Thursday.

The institute was held at the Atlanta Woman's Club, and immediately after adjournment, the women proceeded in a body to a spot near the peace monument in Piedmont park, where Dr. B. D. Gray, of College Park, dedicated the Washington tree. The institute was under the direction of Mrs. John F. MacDougald, chairman of club institutes for the district federation, and Miss Rose Moran, co-chairman. Among those on the program were Mrs. L. O. Freeman, president of the district; Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, Mrs. Walter B. Stewart, Mrs. Wellington Stevenson, Mrs. Jere Wells, Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Murray Howard and Mrs. Victor Kriegerhaber.

A metal plate telling the story of the dedication of the Washington tree will be erected later, it was announced. Mrs. B. D. Gray is chairman of the fifth district federation of clubs forestry committee.

Not only is the headquarters office busy with the advance ticket sale, but five committees from the Young Matrons' circle are conducting an active campaign designed to build up a gross that will net a goodly profit to the circle for its splendid work in behalf of Tallulah Falls school, the mountain institution owned and operated by the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Several major business firms have added their names to the already imposing list of leading merchants who are participating in the event that will bring them before the public in a manner at once distinctive, pleasing and unique.

P. J. P. Allen & Company, Maier & Berke-Gorham, Inc., Georgia Power Company, Nunnally's, Muse's Men's Shop, C. J. Kanper Grocery Company, Southern Business College, Capitol Electric Company, Atlanta Laundries, Inc., Duffie-Free-man Furniture Company, The Back Door Studio, Wofford Oil Company, Jacobs Pharmacy, Foremost Dairies, Anthony-Buick Company and others are participating in the event and each will be represented on the Paramount stage by some chosen member of the younger social contingent who are co-operating in the interest of Tallulah Falls school.

Naturally enough the feminine mind will be keenly concerned with the fact that new and stunning creations are daily arriving at J. P. Allen's from the foremost salons in New York—many gorgeous gowns ordered especially for the fashion revue and many others that already had been anticipated by the Allen buyers who are just back from the metropolis, where they selected an array of spring creations that promise to excite the keenest admiration.

Fascinating dance routines have been devised by Miss Virginia Semon of the Semon-White Studio which is presenting its star pupils in several entrancing solo dances and specialties not to mention a tap dance ensemble whose verve and rhythm is captivating.

Tom Brannon and his orchestra will furnish the music for the dances, introducing many of the newest, popular favorites and otherwise adding a tuneful and joyous quality to the whole affair. Charles Wynne, tenor, is bringing a group of songs that will win new favor for him and thus renew a happy acquaintance with the public that has applauded him heartily.

Altogether it is a brilliant performance that will greet the public at the Paramount theater next week—and in the good of a cause that has long been dear to the hearts of Atlanta people. The ticket sale will continue at the headquarters of the Young Matrons' circle until the fashion show is a matter of history. Tickets are 50 cents each, the theater's regular evening scale.

Two Recitals To Be Given Today By Dayton Westminster Choir

The Dayton Westminster choir, of the Westminster Choir-School, formerly of Dayton, Ohio, and at present affiliated with the Ithaca Conservatory, of Ithaca, N. Y., will arrive today from Knoxville, presenting concerts at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium.

The choir, containing about 60 voices, is said to be the most famous of its kind in the country and has excited much enthusiasm among critics, both here and abroad. Its personnel consists of students in the school who, by their musicianship and scholastic ability, have proved themselves worthy of the honor.

PROPERTY OWNERS INCREASE NOTES

Substantial growth in membership of the property owners' division of the Atlanta Real Estate Board was cited by Chairman Alvin B. Cates at a meeting of the membership committee Thursday as indicative of protest against increased taxation on real estate.

Many new members have been added to the property owners' division, making a total of 73 leading real estate holders who represent a bulk of the local property valuations, Chairman Cates stated.

Mr. Cates pointed out that the increasing interest taken by property owners in this division of the board is due to the organization being developed for the purpose of protecting real estate owners of Atlanta against increased taxation and for lessening the onerous tax burden which rests on this class of investors.

ATLANTA-ASHEVILLE PAVED LINK OPENED

Light Traffic Permitted. Celebration Is Planned.

Light traffic was permitted Thursday to flow over the last paved link of the Atlanta to Asheville hard-surfaced road, officials of the highway department announced, and all types of vehicles will be allowed to use it, beginning Saturday morning.

Completion of a link between Gainesville and Lula, construction of which was begun last fall, opens up an all hard-surfaced road from Florida to Canada and cuts the driving time between Atlanta and Asheville by more than an hour.

North Carolina cities, and Tarheel officials, have been in touch with officials of the Georgia highway department concerning a formal celebration but no plans have matured. It is expected that they will be announced after the adjournment of a regular session of the North Carolina legislature.

Dr. Bruce Barton, noted writer, speaks here Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Bruce Barton, of New York, author of the widely read "The Man Nobody Knows" and "The Book Nobody Knows," will arrive in Atlanta at 6 o'clock tonight to be the weekend guest of the Presidents' Club, and immediately on arrival will plunge into an intensive program which will begin with dinner with members of the Ten Club at the Biltmore hotel.

Dr. Barton will be introduced by Major John S. Cohen at a Presidents' Club dinner at 7 o'clock Saturday night at the Biltmore. Mell Wilkinson, president of the club, will preside.

At 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, Dr. Barton will speak to combined Bible classes of the city in the main auditorium of the First Baptist church. Adult Bible classes, both male and female of all denominations, have been invited to attend. The service will end promptly at 10:40 o'clock, as Dr. Barton will leave on the Crescent Limited at 11 o'clock for New York.

A feature of Dr. Barton's visit on Saturday will be a breakfast arranged by Ivan Allen and Ernest B. Dallas, to be attended by a few personal friends of Dr. Barton. A luncheon at the East Lake Club will be followed Sunday afternoon with a round of golf.

Dr. Barton is one of the outstanding speakers of the country. For a number of years he has taught a men's Bible class in New York, and he has written many books of great interest.

$500,000 OF SUPPLIES BOUGHT FOR BOROUGH

Members of the purchasing committee of the borough council Thursday afternoon contracted to buy approximately $500,000 worth, of supplies. Following bids were awarded:

Sewer castings to Wilbers Foundry; cement to Portland Cement Company, incorporated in West Lumber Company, coal hauling contract to Campbell Coal Company.

Bids on sewer pipes were referred to Chief of Construction Clarke Donaldson for a recommendation, and bids on a tractor for Candler field were rejected and the purchasing agent ordered to advertise for new ones.

ATLANTANS WARNED AGAINST RUG PEDDLERS

The Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association Thursday broadcast a warning to the retail buying public of Atlanta to beware of the itinerant merchandise peddlers of rugs and other articles, as many of them visit Atlanta from time to time, dispose of their wares with excessively high prices and then leave without a forwarding address.

The merchants' association, composed of reputable retail merchants, voice the warning especially for housewives and the occupants of office buildings who are located in the central business section. The warning reads, "In a great many cases, unless the public are careful, they will find merchandise on their hands, bought at prices very much in excess of its real value, and merchandise which may have been very much misrepresented as to its quality and character."

Aid of Local Legislators On City Finances Sought

Mayor Key Seeks Co-operation of Fulton and DeKalb Members of Assembly.

Coincident with announcement by Mayor James L. Key that co-operation of Fulton and DeKalb legislators will be sought in the effort to solve the fiscal problem confronting the borough government, Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, Thursday night declared he will oppose any attempt to increase water rates, real estate taxes or any other levies.

The financial situation of the borough government was made more acute Thursday through restoration of water discounts after the council had anticipated approximately $500,000 from this source. Council also had contemplated additional aid through charter amendments in the legislature this summer, providing means to augment funds already anticipated, but this aid cannot be obtained without the co-operation of local legislative members.

It is this co-operation and sympathetic understanding which Mr. Key will attempt to obtain by the conference, it was explained Thursday night by Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, chairman of the finance committee of council. No definite time has been set for the gathering, but it was indicated that it should be held as soon as practicable in order to fully acquaint members of the assembly with the true financial status of the borough.

"We must have the sympathetic co-operation of legislative members," Mr. Murphy said. "They are men of vision and integrity and we feel sure that they will assist us in solving the problem for the best interests of Atlanta. It is our purpose to ask them into a gathering at which the situation will be explained fully and they will be requested to assist in evolving some plan to relieve the condition which now exists."

As far as I am concerned, I feel that no definite plan should be formed without the full co-operation, understanding and sympathy of members of the assembly. They should be given every courtesy and every opportunity of assisting in the solution. It not only would be a great advantage to have their advice, but they would be performing a patriotic service which I am sure they want to do."

Mr. White suggested that a tax equivalent be made to raise finances, stating that if central business property is taxed as residential property is, thousands of dollars would be added to the borough coffers.

Alderman Murphy canceled a scheduled meeting of the finance committee for 10 o'clock Monday morning pending outcome of the conference, at which time it is hoped a truce will be effected between administration leaders and at least two members of the new assembly—George A. Eckford and William G. McRae, of Fulton. Eckford successfully attacked council action eliminating water rate discounts. It was the result of this legal battle which forced council in special session Wednesday afternoon to abrogate former ordinances abolishing the discounts.

If the conciliation plan is effective, it will mean that the administration will be able to adopt measures designed to rehabilitate the borough government without further retrenchment. If, however, the gesture is futile, it will mean further curtailment of public improvements and impoverishment of various departments, including schools, to absorb a deficit which Mayor Key has estimated amounted to nearly $1,000,000 from the Ragdale regime.

All in all, the contemplated conference is highly important to the administration. On its success depends not only the plan for obtaining additional funds to absorb the $500,000 water discounts, but $250,000 in over-anticipations contained in the January finance sheet, and a promise to the school department that the $2,651,000 allocated to them would be augmented from additional funds which the borough contemplates from sources which it is hoped the legislature will open.

Another matter of prime importance in which the co-operation of the legislature will be sought, will be revision of ward lines of the borough, reducing wards from 13 to 6, and council membership from 39 to 18. Atlanta voted this change overwhelmingly in the referendum held in December.

INCOME TAX PAYERS TO BE AIDED BY ROSE

Deputies from the office of J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, will visit more than 100 Georgia cities and towns during the period starting Tuesday and ending March 16 in order that taxpayers may obtain assistance in preparation of 1930 income tax returns, it was announced Thursday.

"A correct return is the objective. The chief purpose of these trained men will be to give out correct information and they are not interested in whether it increases or decreases the tax to be shown on the taxpayer's return," said Mr. Rose. "There is no charge for the service, and taxpayers are urged to take advantage of it."

BLAINE, HASTINGS CLASH ON LEASES

Wisconsin Senator's Remarks Deemed "Insulting" to Harry New.

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Chairman Blaine of the senate committee investigating the St. Paul commercial station postoffice lease, charged today a "strong chain of circumstances" pointed to collusion to prevent a second grand jury investigation of the lease.

The charge was made during cross-examination of Harry S. New, former postmaster general, who denied any connection with the lease. It precipitated a sharp exchange between Blaine, the witness, and Senator Hastings, republican, Delaware, another committee member.

Questioned by Hastings, Blaine denied he was charging collusion on New's part, but both Hastings and New charged that the committee chairman was "insulting."

After New insisted he had sent postal inspectors to St. Paul to learn the truth about charges of "fraud" in the lease, contained in a grand jury report, Blaine asked:

"Do you still contend the inspectors were not sent to place a construction on the evidence that would discredit future investigations?"

"That question," the former postmaster general replied, "is almost insulting and not worthy of answer."

"It is quite insulting," Hastings asserted.

"Nobody ever acted in better faith in any honest attempt to find if there was fraud than I did," New added.

"I am convinced," Blaine said, "that the chain of circumstances, and every link in that chain is becoming stronger, shows there was collusion to prevent the second grand jury investigation."

"Was it the duty of the inspectors to investigate the grand jury?" he asked.

"It was their duty to run down all the stories which were going to the grand jury," New replied. "The inspectors were sent to get the truth and I accepted their reports as the truth."

At one point in the cross-examination the name of James W. Good, late secretary of war who served as attorney for lessees of the St. Paul station, was mentioned. Previous testimony said he negotiated the contract with New.

"It is altogether regrettable," New said, "that Mr. Good is not here to testify in his own behalf and in his own defense."

"I am not charging Good with anything," Blaine said.

New was questioned by Blaine about a letter John H. Bartlett, his assistant postmaster general, had testified was sent to Good in Chicago during 1928. Bartlett said he had written the letter but did not know its contents.

New said he did not remember the letter but would not deny having sent it. He denied, however, it was in relation to the dismissal of Assistant District Attorney Fessler, at St. Paul.

GEORGIA HISTORY NEED IS TOLD BY BREWTON

Failings of Southern Literature Stressed Before Writers' Club.

Stating that there has never been a published history of the state of Georgia "since the beginning of time," William W. Brewton, speaking before the Atlanta Writers' Club at the Capital City Club Thursday night on the subject, "The Only Culture," made a plea for some capitalist to finance the writing of a complete history of the state and not mere outlines of incidents immediately following the Revolutionary or Civil Wars.

Mr. Brewton asserted that all histories in existence now are incomplete or inaccurate insofar as Georgia is concerned.

"In 1933 Georgia celebrates her second centennial, when there is to be a notable gathering of people at Savannah, and it is my opinion that a comprehensive work should be ready by that time," he said.

"There is today, as there always has been, a radical, fundamental difference between the civilization of the south and that of the north, east and west," he asserted, "yet strange as it may seem, due to our own neglect, our very own civilization is interpreted to the world only by those who neither know it nor could understand it. The books of our history are the south merit only as the south appears to be 'changing.' Some may know of some modern book that treats the south as a 'lost' civilization, without apology, or condescension, or petting, or some form of weak self-annihilating phraseology; but if they do, they are more fortunate than I."

"I say the culture of the south is not in the books and it is because we have failed to put it there," he continued.

"The south's civilization is a different civilization. It is the civilization of individualism. In truth, this matter of publishing our history is today's great challenge to the south, for with our original sources crumbling to dust on library shelves, we veritably stand with our backs to the wall."

FITZHUGH, CRUMP REMAIN AT OUTH
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Speaker Scott Fitzhugh, of the state senate, failed today to close a wide-open breach with E. H. Crump, Memphis political boss who dominated the largest county delegation in the general assembly.

Speaker Walter Haynes, of the house, came here with Fitzhugh to confer with Crump.

There were authoritative indications tonight that conferences with the political leader served to increase hostility to Fitzhugh, brought into the open by a local Sunday movie bill which was denounced by Crump.

Fitzhugh is a member of the Shelby county delegation controlled by Crump. He issued a statement calling Crump "friend" and insisted that "nothing wrong" in his support of the movie bill. Crump had nothing to say publicly.

WORKER IS INJURED IN SCAFFOLD FALL
A carpenter, identified by fellow workmen as J. C. Godfrey, 30 years old, of a Bryan street address, was admitted to Grady hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain and a fractured skull sustained early Thursday afternoon in a fall from a 20-foot scaffold at the East Lake school.

Admitted to the hospital unconscious, early in the afternoon, he was still in a state of coma Thursday night.

GRANDMOTHER DIES FROM POISON DOSE
Mrs. Emma Parish, 64-year-old grandmother, died at Grady hospital late Thursday afternoon of poison, which, according to police reports, was self-administered earlier in the day with suicidal intent. An inquest will be held.

According to the police report, Mrs. Parish took the poison at her home, 119 Leath street. Relatives could ascribe no cause for her action.

She is survived by one son, C. D. Parish; two daughters, Mrs. S. B. Warren and Mrs. Minnie Harfield; three brothers, Dr. R. N. Weaver and Sam Weaver, all of Atlanta, and C. H. Weaver, of Birmingham, and a granddaughter, Mrs. J. A. Christmas. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Sam Greenberg & Co.

LINDY VISIT SOUGHT BY SOUTH AMERICA
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—South America wants a visit by Colonel Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh after it is through entertaining the Prince of Wales, returns from a letter inquiry to nearly 100 Latin American businessmen, bankers, educators and politicians indicate.

The inquiry was sent out by John Barrett, former director general of the Pan-American Union, and United States minister to Argentina. Mr. Barrett has received replies from nearly 80 per cent of the letters, which were directed to people in eight countries, Argentina, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Ecuador, Paraguay, Peru and Uruguay. Colombia and Venezuela were not included, he explained today, because Colonel Lindbergh has already visited them.

SOUTHERN BEEKEEPERS ELECT TEXAN AS HEAD
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 19.—(AP)—E. G. Le Sturgeon, of San Antonio, was elected president of the Southern Beekeepers' Conference at its closing session here today. St. Petersburg, Fla., was selected as the 1932 convention city.

Other officers named were Professor J. N. Robinson, Auburn, Ala., secretary; J. W. Darney, Bradenton, Fla., first vice president, and John Prothro, of Virginia, second vice president. D. W. Howell, Stillman, Ga., was elected vice president for Georgia.

Choose Between Me And Smedley—Capone
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19.—(UP)—Let the American people choose between me and General Butler, said Scarface Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, today in reply to Butler's reported statement that Capone is a criminal who ought to be deported to Italy.

A prepared statement, written on tinted stationery in his Palm Island home here, gave Capone's side of the controversy. Capone said Butler "should know the laws of this country protect an American-born citizen like myself and prevent deportation of anyone like myself who was born in this country."

"General Butler says I am a criminal," Capone added. "The only charge that I know of or any law-abiding authority knows of is my being charged with vagrancy."

"I have been feeding between 2,500 and 3,000 people daily in Chicago. If this is the act of a vagrant, I want to be classed as one."

FOR THREE YEARS THEY COULD NOT STOP HIS AWFUL COUGHING
Coughed After Meals in Regular Spasms But at Last Remedy Was Found

HE WAS A SICK MAN BUT WELL AGAIN NOW

"I spent as high as fifty dollars for different kinds of treatments and had my case diagnosed by different doctors but each attributed it to something else and nothing helped me. For three years I spent hard-earned money in vain and then one day I saw an 'Ad' about Lin-O-Nine, and the druggist had it in my town, and thank God, for that. My cough vanished before I finished the second bottle, and that's been nearly a year ago," writes John Walz, a mine operator of Warden, Ill.

"Just think of it—I would get such awful spasms of coughing after each meal, that I would actually vomit, and become so weak I would need to lie down, and this I did for nearly three years. During that time I tried remedies without avail, and every doctor had a different idea, but that's all over now, and I think Lin-O-Nine is wonderful. You can publish my statement for Lin-O-Nine is a cough killer worthy of being in every home," continues Mr. Walz.

Thousands in mining sections know Lin-O-Nine. Thousands for years have used this harmless, soothing, beneficial Flaxseed, Eucalyptus, Betula, Cassia, Irish Moss and Glycerine Emulsion for years in their families up around Conn. and Mass, where fishermen get deep hoarse wintry colds and coughs. It is far superior to Cod Liver preparations, according to the nationally-known 35-year-old Kerr Chemical Co., which makes Lin-O-Nine. It is a snowy white creamy mixture with a taste as nice as ice cream, users say, and if the reader wants to try it—Ask the druggist, or send 50 cents or $1 for large or small bottles by return mail. Kerr Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md. They guarantee user will be delighted or cheerfully refund the money.—(adv.)

Business and Professional Women
TODAY, women are appearing in many phases of life previously closed to them and the necessity for perfect health becomes more and more marked. They cannot afford to lose time or neglect appointments on account of illness.

The pains and general misery which many young women experience may, in almost every instance, be entirely prevented or overcome by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It tones the general health. Usually headache, backache, nervousness and other consequences of womanly weakness disappear.

A little attention to these details early in life has saved many a young woman years of suffering at more or less regular intervals.

Girls give this Prescription—once used in active practice by Dr. R. V. Pierce—a trial. All druggists—fluid or tablets. Then if you feel the need of medical advice, write the Faculty, Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., using the symptom blank found wrapped around the medicine and receive, free, a diagnosis of your case.

One woman who has used the Prescription tells her friends this: "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the tonic and nerve me my mother gave me when I was fifteen years of age, and then from time to time until I was eighteen. My development into womanhood caused me to suffer a great deal. I was nervous and lacked strength and vitality. I am recommending this 'Prescription' today because I have perfect health—not the faintest sign of inward weakness or nerves. Just real healthy womanhood."—Mrs. Dixie Hiers, 315 E. Lee St., Plant City, Fla.

Fort McPherson Troops in Brilliant Parade in Honor of General James G. Harbord

For the first time since his retirement in 1922, General James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, Thursday at Fort McPherson stood on the reviewing stand while a regiment passed before him for inspection. The General and Mrs. Harbord are the guests of Major Frank R. McCoy, the corps commander, and Mrs. McCoy. He is shown here with Brigadier General George H. Estes, commandant of the post, and Major S. J. Chamberlain, acting commandant of the twenty-second infantry, watching the twenty-second pass in full field review. Photo by George Corbett.

Displaying a firm military step despite his civilian clothes and advanced years, General James G. Harbord, retired officer of the 22d infantry, while the regiment and other combat units at the post went through the full field review. Then with the same officers in passed between the lines of soldiers standing at attention and inspected their equipment.

"It makes me want to be back in uniform again," the general, who during his military career held every enlisted man's and officer's rank from private to major-general and chief of staff, declared. "This world of business is all right and has its thrills but the army is the life."

General Harbord and Mrs. Harbord have been spending a few days at Fort McPherson as the guests of Major General and Mrs. Frank R. McCoy. General McCoy, the fourth corps area commander, and General Harbord served as lieutenants together in Cuba and the Philippines. General and Mrs. Harbord will leave tonight for New York.

Tuberculosis Association Sees Control of Scourge by 1940

Control of tuberculosis by 1940 through a program that combines education and social service with clinical and hospital treatment, was the inspiring prediction of the association at the annual meeting of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association.

The meeting was the first to be held in the new home of the association at 280 Forrest avenue. It brought expressions of enthusiasm over that circumstance. P. E. Glenn, president of the association, reported the building to be clear of debt, and an equity of $2,000 held in the structure next door, with rentals from the latter sufficient to pay notes due.

Robert K. Rambo, a leader in activities of the association for years, was elected president to succeed Mr. Glenn, and Dr. McIntosh M. Burns, former president of the borough board of education, was elected head of the medical staff.

Record for Year.
A record of 2,927 patients treated in the clinic of the association last year, of 1,715 families under care and observation, and of literature for health education distributed to 112,788 persons, was revealed in the outline of the year's work. Thirty cases were reported cured.

This record was largely possible, Mr. Glenn said, because of the medical staff of 44 physicians, which were given free in operation of 1,079 clinics. Eight nurses made 13,162 visits to homes menaced by the plague, carrying the message of hygiene and of hope for sufferers.

Need of increased energy in fighting tuberculosis among the negro population was urged by Dr. McIntosh's farewell report.

"We have increased this part of our service by the addition of a half-time nurse," Mr. Glenn said. "Our educational department has worked during 1930 with the state department of education perfecting plans for the building of a school for colored children in Alto, where we are able to place the children from our infected homes."

The Rev. S. M. Lee, whose leadership was reported as highly effective, was re-elected president of the colored division of the association.

Other Officers.
Besides Mr. Rambo, other officers of the white branch were L. D. Sharp, Dr. C. C. Aren and Julian V. Boehm, vice presidents; L. D. Sharp, treasurer, and Miss Mary Dickinson, executive secretary.

The tuberculosis association is one of the societies maintained through the Community Chest, also obtaining increased funds for Christmas collections from which $8,345.50 was derived last year, and from city and county funds, the latter because of the large amount of public service rendered.

The following were re-elected to the board of directors: J. H. Alexander, Dr. C. C. Aren, Dr. C. C. Aren, Dr. C. C. Aren.

MUSIC CLUB SCORES SUCCESSFUL DRIVE

With two days remaining in which members will be received by the Atlanta Music Club, the week's campaign has been most successful, it was announced Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Walter H. Bedard, president.

Nearly all of the existing membership of 1,000 have renewed the season cards, it was stated, and there has been a gain in new members. The club hopes to bring the total up to 2,000 by Saturday night, the end of the invitation period.

Increased funds will permit the engagement of outstanding concert stars next season, it was pointed out by Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, vice president on duty at the Phillips & Crew store.

The membership fee of $5 for grown-ups and $2.50 for children under 18 and all college students, admits members to the series of concerts, the morning musicals of the club and other activities. No tickets will be sold for separate concerts, and only holders of membership cards, which are transferable when desired, will be admitted.

BOWERS WILL SPEAK AT EMORY SATURDAY

Noted Editor and Historian Will Lecture on Historic Myths.

Claude G. Bowers, historian, journalist and orator, will deliver an address on "Myths and Caricatures of History" at Emory University at 8:15 o'clock Saturday evening. Mr. Bowers' address will be given in the university auditorium on the campus.

Mr. Bowers, who comes to Emory under the auspices of the Student Lecture Association, is one of the best-known writers of the present day. His first book, "Patri Battles of the Jackson Period," displayed in a most striking way his ability to delineate the social scene and to make the past live again. In his "Jefferson and Hamilton" he succeeded so well in picturing the rivalry between those two great statesmen and the parties they represented that he was asked to make the keynote address at the democratic national convention at Houston in 1928, where he drew upon his vast knowledge of American history and politics to inspire the democratic hosts with the ideals of Thomas Jefferson.

His latest book, "The Tragic Era," which deals with the reconstruction period, pictures Andrew Johnson much more favorably than has been customary in the past, and does it so well that it has forced upon the public and upon historical scholars a revision of the former " verdict of history" upon that period. In his address at Emory Saturday evening, Mr. Bowers will deal with the periods and persons covered in his three famous books.

The general admission to the lecture will be 75 cents. Season tickets will be honored. The address will be open to the general public and a large attendance is expected.

Father of Hat Checking Goes Into Bankruptcy
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The man whose ingenuity launched many a hat check girl on the road to fortune is broke himself.

He is John Leffer, Broadway stage manager for 35 years and member of the Lambs Club. He has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court, declaring that liabilities amount to $11,843, $75 of which is owed to David Belasco.

It was a rainy day in '79 when the hat-checking idea was born at Tony Pastor's, Young John, then a program boy, found there were good tips in minding folks' wet umbrellas during the show. The next day he had a keymaker fashion the now familiar brass check.

The Little comedian landed today on the second visit he has made to his homeland in 20 years and from the moment the Manhattan east anchor until he reached his London hotel he was besieged by crowds.

Crowds waited on the quai, cheered from platforms as his train sped toward London and were so packed at Paddington station when he arrived. As he leaped to the roof of his car and drove for his hotel they cheered him again and again.

All this was very well, Charlie said in the privacy of the royal suite which the hotel had reserved for him, but he wanted to walk about unknown in the streets he knew as a poor youth. He even hinted that he might don a disguise.

CHAPLIN ARRIVES IN LAND OF BIRTH

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin hopes for quiet days during his visit to England, but if his first day was a sample he will play the lead in one long mob scene.

"Because I've just made use of the first time I ever saw you—I've been doing it ever since—if you're fool enough to let me I'll probably keep on doing it."

"All right," he said, evenly. "You can't say fairer than that. Cards on the table. If I keep on it's my look-out, it seems to me; if I get hurt it's my own fault."

"Oh, that's so easy to say!" said Martha. "It sounds like sense—but it isn't. You don't know—and I do. I don't want to be hurt, Peter. I'm much too fond of you."

"That something to go on with, you know," he said. "It's rather a lot, Martha."

She shook her head. "No," she said. "It isn't. Not really. You don't know. You think you do, but you don't."

"That's to be seen," said Peter. "Me—I'm taking a chance. I've got sense enough to know it's a big chance. The odds are against me. Ross—"

"He comes first," said Martha. "It's a relief to say that, somehow. Tack knows it, of course, and he loathes it, but I've never actually told him."

"Right," said Peter. "Well, then why don't you divorce Tack and marry him? I think, Evan hasn't the obvious thing. It's being done all the time. I should think—"

"I can't," she said. "For lots of reasons. For one thing, Evan hasn't any money, and I haven't enough to go very far. I cost a lot, Peter. And then—it would be a rotten trick to play on Tack. I mean, I mean, I mean. His mother's never stand for it. He's put it up to her. It wouldn't matter that it wasn't his fault. She'd make him suffer for it, just the same. Well, then—there's another thing. You're not happy, Martha."

"Happy?" she said. "Dear God! Happy? she laughed. 'No, I don't think you could call me happy.'"

"Why not?" He asked the question bluntly. "After all—"

She looked at him, puzzled. "My dear Peter," she said. "It's not a situation that makes for happiness, is it? I'm in love with a man I can't marry. And—"

"And—there's a little more, too," said Peter. "You're in a jam—a bad jam. You're in love with this chap. You can't marry him. But that's not all. There's more to it than that. It's tied up with that business about the man at Emma's—don't you know how, and I'm not asking you, unless you want to tell me."

"I can't," said Martha. "That's one of the things that would drag other people in, Peter dear."

"Right. That's up to you. Well, anyway, here it is. I'm in love with you. As far as I can tell, I'm going to keep on being in love with you for quite a while. We're in the same boat—I can't have you, and you can't have Ross. There's a chance that things'll break. I'm not sure you could marry Ross if Tack were out of the way—I think that's part of your jam. And I think you like me pretty well."

"I do, Peter. I'm not in love with you, but I like you better than any one I know."

"Good. I'll take a chance on that—that if this thing with Ross finally goes sour I'll have a look-in. And I have a hunch I can be useful, maybe. I don't know how—or when. But I'm going to be as close as I can to it."

"You're rather surprising, Peter," said Martha. "I hadn't thought of you as being a discerning person, particularly."

"I'm not. Not as a rule. You're a special case, you see."

"Am I? I don't deserve to be. I don't want to whine, Peter, but I've had a bad time. There's only been one person I can talk to at all."

"Zah?" said Peter. "How do you know?"

"Oh, Lord!" said Peter. "That's simple, my dear. How many times have you chased me, after lunch, and turned down his bid?"

"I see," said Martha, thoughtfully. "Yes, I've been going to him. I think I'd have gone mad, if it hadn't been for him. I've been going to him for ages."

She stopped; sat still, thinking. "I started before I even met Evan Ross," she said. "When things were beginning to get so impossible with Tack and me. I was terribly young, and bewildered, and stupid then. Peter. I lost my temper, and kicked and screamed, and just made things worse."

"Dr. Zahn calmed me. He still does. He's utterly impersonal, you see. I go there, and lie down, and I don't even see him—there's just his voice, behind me, asking me questions, occasionally. I think it must be rather like going to confession, for a Catholic. You say anything that comes into your head, and he—well, he sort of helps you to make sense of the things that don't fit. He makes you see that there's a sort of pattern in life, after all, no matter how mad and unfair and confused it seems."

"I can see how that might work out," said Peter. But he was frowning, to himself. An old, atavistic, streak of Puritanism, which is more closely related to medieval mysticism than most people of Puritan descent would ever readily admit, even in the face of the flowering of transcendentalism in the stony soil of New England in the middle of the nineteenth century, came out strongly, from time to time, in Peter. He accepted, as a scientist, the value of the psycho-analytic technique in psychiatric medicine, but there remained in him an innate distrust of what he regarded as mental short cuts of every sort. He was, as has been said before, and Mark remains, a very simple and direct, and rather hard-headed sort of person.

"Well," he said, "we've got somewhere, haven't we? Last night, today, I mean. We've faced something; we don't have to beat about the bush any longer. We both know some things we don't know and direct, at least—I do, and you're sure of something you only guessed. By the way—why haven't you been able to talk more to Ross? If you're in love with him and he—"

She started, again. "You're rather disturbing, Peter," she said, slowly, after a moment. "I didn't expect, somehow, that you'd start putting your finger on things that way."

"My dear, I suppose I ought to tell you that the thing that matters most to me is your happiness. Well—in a way, it is. But I've a marked preference for getting your happiness and mine hooked up, you see, and I'm perfectly frank to say so. I'll help about Ross, if I have to, but I won't enjoy it."

"I'm not asking you to do that!" she said, her cheeks scarlet. "You won't have to ask me," he said. "I'll do it all right, if it comes to that—because I'd be a thick-headed ass if I didn't. I haven't a chance in the world of getting what I want as long as you still have him on your mind, and I know it."

"I'll have to be getting back, Peter," she said. "I'm glad you made me come. I really am. I feel better that I have for weeks."

"So do I," said Peter, cheerfully. "It's a silly mess, all around, but it's something to get what one's up against. All right—let's go."

Inevitably, that day marked a turning point in Peter's relations with Martha. They'd been intimate before, but there was a new quality now about their intimacy. She had now the sovereignty over him that a woman always does have over a declaratory lover, and more and more, she exercised it—though Peter had an idea that she'd begun by being very resolute, in her own mind, that she wouldn't.

He saw no more of her than he had been seeing; that would, in any case, have been difficult. In fact, their tete-a-tete became, actually, rarer. She was less ready than she had been to have lunch with him at Ross's, or tea; she broke appointments with him more often; she was capricious and a little autocratic. She assumed, pre-emptively, the right to dispose of his time.

As for him, more than ever, a day in which he didn't see her became one to be struck from the calendar. Their morning talk over the telephone had to be a daily rite, and, invariably, the conversation came to include a question as to whether he was going to see her.

WOMAN EDITOR HITS CONDITIONS IN STATE

responsibilities as we should be, the lobbyist would be excluded from the state's legislative halls. Intelligent men would be sitting there studying the state's problems and needs.

"We do not even remotely sense the agent of the power that lies in the hands of the editor who owns the paper he serves and at the same time owns his own soul—a new and brighter era could be brought to pass in Georgia if only this small group should choose calmly, courageously and without prejudice, declare war upon the evils that are striking at the very heart of this state.

"But what of the newspapers? Have they, too, settled down to follow the path of least resistance? Are we guilty of cheapening our editorial columns by defending or ignoring public questions in the hope of reaping personal gain? Do we write sweetly flowing lines while demagogues trifle with issues involving the safety of government and society?

"On the contrary do we hurl vituperation and abuse engendered by narrow prejudice at some of our pet public aversions while others far more vicious in their possible effect are completely ignored?

"Are we as fair to those whom we distrust as we are to our friends? Have we the courage to commend and even defend a public service corporation for its good work and just as faithfully condemn it should it become drunk with the power of overflowing coffers and attempt to make evil use of this power?

"Can we still boast that we are unwavering and unbribed by gain, pledged to religion, liberty and law?

"I am quite well aware that dwelling upon this dark side of the picture at such length may subject me to the charge of being afflicted with hypochondria or some other kind of hysteria, but I am not half so disconsolate as you sound.

"There are still many good men and women in the world, in our courts, our schools, churches, public offices, legislative halls and editorial chairs.

"It is because of these good men and women that I call upon you to use all the power at your command to arouse them to action—to an active interest in public affairs, for you will agree with me that Georgia can only prosper if the men and women of the opposite type have been permitted to get into the saddle.

"I do not believe I am an alarmist. If I were not confident that there are enough good men and women left in the world to set things straight, I should be disconsolate indeed.

A reception to visiting journalists opened the three-day program of the institute which will hear nationally-known speakers before the adjournment of the final session Saturday.

Chancellor Charles M. Snelling, of the University of Georgia, formally opened the first session at 8:30 p. m. in an address of welcome to the visitors.

Louis E. Morris, president of the Georgia Press Association, responded. General trends in the field of journalism today as well as specific problems confronting the press will be discussed at a series of conferences and addresses on tomorrow's program.

A feature of the meeting will be the address at Saturday's session by Claude G. Bowers, chief editorial writer of the New York World, and keynote speaker at the last democratic national convention.

Dr. Charles H. Herty, nationally known chemist, who has since 1930 pointed out that there is no question in his mind that Georgia can have a great industry in the manufacture of all sorts of white paper, including newspaper, spoke of the paper industry which must be overcome before such a promise can be fulfilled and warned against overoptimism on the part of many now concerned in such an enterprise.

Dr. Herty said in part: "There is no question in my mind about the fact that Georgia can have a great industry in the manufacture of all sorts of white paper, including newspaper, spoke of the paper industry which must be overcome before such a promise can be fulfilled and warned against overoptimism on the part of many now concerned in such an enterprise.

"I base these statements on a study of newspaper clippings which have reached me from Georgia and all parts of the south since October 20, 1930, when I made public for the first time in Atlanta the fact that young pines which contain but little resin can be readily pulped by the sulphate process just as in the case of the spruce of the United States and Canada, and that such pulp can be bleached with equal readiness as that from the spruce.

"On the contrary, through my contacts in the north, I know that there is a strong resistance on the part of paper manufacturers, for it is a serious question to transplant an industry just as in the case of the spruce of the United States and Canada, and that such pulp can be bleached with equal readiness as that from the spruce.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR THOMAS K. SCOTT

Former Manager of Georgia
Railroad Buried in Augusta Cemetery.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 19.—(P)—

T. K. Scott, for 20 years general manager of the Georgia railroad under the leasehold of the Louisville & Nashville and Atlantic Coast Line railroads, was buried here Thursday in Sumnerville cemetery.

Funeral services were held from the residence of a daughter, Mrs. C. J. Montgomery, where he died Wednesday, with the Rev. H. B. Barber, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd officiating.

Mr. Scott came here in 1883 to take charge of the Georgia railroad. He retired in 1913 at the age of 64, being succeeded by Charles Wickham, present general manager. He was 81 years old at the time of his death.

During Mr. Scott's administration was built most of the organization that in the past 17 years has made it one of the best operated carriers in the south.

Mr. Scott, a native of Meigs county, Tennessee, entered railroad work with the Mobile & Montgomery railroad, a part of the L. & N., in 1871. Until August, 1878, he was chief clerk to the general freight agent of the road. For two years, ending in 1878, he was freight agent.

He also served as joint agent and general agent for a number of roads before becoming connected with the Atlantic Coast Line in 1884 as general superintendent. In 1890 he was chosen general superintendent of the Alabama railroad, from which he came to Augusta to assume charge of the Georgia road.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Margaret C. Scott, and three daughters, Mrs. C. J. Montgomery, Augusta; Mrs. A. Blair Montgomery, Rogers, Ark.; and Mrs. Gwinn Nixon, Augusta.

"I base these statements on a study of newspaper clippings which have reached me from Georgia and all parts of the south since October 20, 1930, when I made public for the first time in Atlanta the fact that young pines which contain but little resin can be readily pulped by the sulphate process just as in the case of the spruce of the United States and Canada, and that such pulp can be bleached with equal readiness as that from the spruce.

Macon Artist Breaks Leg in Fall, Moans Over Loss of Sketchbook

MACON, Ga., Feb. 19.—(P)—Edward S. Shorter, artist, who has studios in Macon and Columbus, broke his left leg late today—but worst of all, he moaned at a local hospital, he lost his sketchbook.

Mr. Shorter had stationed himself on a promontory in Rose Hill cemetery, in the northern part of the city, overlooking the Ocmulgee river and the lowlands on the east side of the stream. He was sketching the scene, but he stepped backward to get a better view, and slipped on a rock and fell.

Two negroes working in the cemetery heard Mr. Shorter call for help. They ran to his aid.

At the direction of the artist they formed a crude splint of pine boards, tied it with handkerchiefs to hold the leg in place and then carried him the whole length of the cemetery, where he was taken in an ambulance to a local hospital.

Not until then did Mr. Shorter think of his sketchbook. Police have been unable to find it.

Trachoma Clinic in Bainbridge Will Be Opened by U. S. Today

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Feb. 19.—(P)—A clinic for the study of trachoma, an eye infection, will be held here Friday and Saturday by representatives of the United States public health service.

Laboratory experiments and field study of the disease will be discussed at the clinic. Friday will be devoted largely to diagnosing and checking up patients examined by Dr. Ida Bengston, research worker of the public health service. Operative cases will receive attention Saturday.

Dr. E. C. Rice, surgeon from the United States public health service hospital at Rolla, Mo., is due here tomorrow.

Dr. Bengston says an effort has been made to learn if the trachoma reported in this section is similar to the trachoma found in other parts of the country.

In general, Dr. Bengston said, "it appears that the Georgia type may be a milder form of the disease than that occurring in certain other parts of the country for the reason that a higher percentage of cases have been found in the lower grades of the schools studied. It may be that the disease is one which may be overcome as the child grows older."

"On the other hand there have been found a certain number of typically chronic cases and some cases of blindness resulting from the disease which make it appear that true trachoma with the possibility of its causing permanent damage to the vision does occur and that many of the other cases may develop into the chronic type warrants a serious consideration of the problem. The laboratory work is designed with a view toward throwing light on these points.

Dr. Bengston and two assistants are in charge of the laboratory. Six monkeys have been used in inoculation experiments in the laboratory. The clinic is to be held at the laboratory, where preparations will be made for operations in two local hospitals.

Relative Merits of Deuces, Treys Cause Dispute at Bridge Tourney

BY AUSTIN T. ROGERS, United Press Correspondent.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 19.—(UP)—Today's play in the first annual southern sectional bridge championship at the Bonair Vanderbilt hotel here was a close one, but the men retired to private rooms and continue their sessions for hours. One session which lasted 36 hours started immediately after the bridge had completed play for the state championship last Tuesday night.

The enthusiastic claim that bridge is the only game which provides more post mortem conversation than golf.

Players at other tables were too engrossed in their own particular problems in the duplicate contract tournament to bother with outside troubles, but one controversy almost promised physical combat at its climax.

Sidney Lenz, former national ping pong champion, and William McKenny, secretary of the American Bridge League and one-time national pool champion, developed the heat over the relative merits of deuces and treys, which, as everybody knows, are the lowest cards in any bridge deck.

Sir Derrick Wernher, international bridge expert in the United States, explained the rise of argument in terms which were of little use to the ordinary layman who argues generally are restricted to trumping of partner's ace and "second hand low, fourth hand high."

"Bridge has a language all its own," the expert said. "Cards are symbols. When the player played a deuce (two-spot), it was a sign to his partner to change suit, because they are three-spot, which was a signal to continue the suit, which was what should have been done."

OFFICIALS INSPECT SAVANNAH HARBOR

U. S. Board Members Seek
Status of Projects Now
Under Way.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 19.—(P)—

Five members of the federal board of engineers for rivers and harbors arrived here Thursday.

The party is inspecting the improvements to Savannah's harbor, work done in recent years and the status of projects now under way.

The visitors are: Brigadier General Herbert DeKayne, chairman of the board; Colonel Edward H. Schultz, commander of the engineer school, Fort Humphries, Va.; Colonel Harley B. Ferguson, serving as division engineer of the south Atlantic division with headquarters at Norfolk, Va.; Colonel Earl J. Brown, district engineer at Philadelphia and Colonel Warren T. Hannum, district engineer at Baltimore.

During the afternoon the engineering board luncheon was the scene of a conference between the visitors and Major Douglas L. West, district engineer here, and M. B. Haas and Ralph F. Rhodes, in the departmental service.

The other four indicted were: Emanuel Levi, general manager of the Courier-Journal; E. K. Callahan, Chicago capitalist; Herbert Fiesel, of Washington, Ind.; and Schley Perry, general manager of the Pineland Lodge, Judge Bingham's Baker county hunting preserve.

The five were first indicted in July, 1929, but the case was dismissed because of an error in the indictment. They were re-indicted the same month and the case has been in court since.

The present Baker county grand jury recommended the dismissal of the indictments on payment of the court costs and a similar petition was signed by members of the grand jury that returned the original indictment.

Game Warden G. W. Saye, of Albany, one of the arresting officers, also recommended dismissal of the cases.

What's happened to Coolidge?

BRUCE BARTON, in one of his most brilliant and human articles, gives the answer in The American Magazine for March—OUT TODAY!

What is the secret of the new warmth that surrounds Calvin Coolidge?

Why has he grown to even greater stature in the affections of the American people since he left the White House two years ago?

"Back in Ward Four," which appears in the March American Magazine, presents an entirely new and intimate picture of one of the most talked about men in the world.

Here you find a Calvin Coolidge who slips out to the kitchen to make himself a cup of hot chocolate before going to bed; who rummages in the attic among the trophies of a Presidential administration; who romps with his dogs in the first home he has ever owned.

It is an astonishing picture of a man we never quite knew before.

Such human documents as this—chapters out of the lives of real people—explain why The American Magazine is "first with all the family" in 2,200,000 homes.

What would Your Face Tell Your Banker

ARE you a Longhead or a Roundhead? These are just two of the classifications that a small city banker uses in reading men's souls from their faces. With uncanny ability he picks out the dependable, the careless, the mean, and the dishonest from among his clients, and governs his actions accordingly. Behind his story lies the drama of small-town banking, the successes that this man has helped to build, and the reasons for failures he has witnessed. Read it as it is reported by James R. Crowell in the March American Magazine, and it will help you understand your fellow men better... and yourself as well.

TALLULAH FALLS TRUSTEES MEET WITH MRS. HARDMAN

Sessions Held at Executive Mansion in Ansley Park

By invitation of Georgia's gracious "first lady" the executive mansion opened its hospitable doors Thursday afternoon and evening for the semi-annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Tallulah Falls Industrial school, of which Mrs. Hardman is a member. After a business session, which convened at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. John K. Otley, president, in the chair, the trustees repaired to the dining room where dinner was served. The table, which was covered by a cloth of imported lace, had for a centerpiece the state of Georgia's magnificent silver epergne, filled with a soft-toned arrangement of Columbia and Madame Butterfly roses and pink and yellow snapdragons, while the smaller baskets around the central bowl held pink and lavender sweetpeas. Tall pale-green candles and pink and green bonbons completed the exquisite color combination, and the entire mansion was filled with spring flowers.

Receiving Party. Mrs. Hardman wore a model of black satin and lace; Mrs. Pasco Palmer wore a black-and-white velvet combination; Mrs. John K. Otley, president Tallulah Falls trustees, wore a costume of black summer velvet with yoke and sleeves of d'Alencon lace. Mrs. S. V. Sanford, president Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, wore a model of black panne satin and lace. Miss Emma Hardman assisted her husband in receiving, and Mrs. Robert K. Rambo and Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick served dessert from a special table in the dining room, while receiving in the drawing rooms were Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, and Mrs. W. B. Smith, of Tennessee, vice presidents Georgia Federation, and Mrs. Walter Lamar and Mrs. Willard C. Patterson, of Atlanta, vice presidents; Mrs. Price Gilbert, secretary, and Mrs. Price Smith, treasurer, Tallulah Falls trustees. The occasion was honored by the presence of the governor of Georgia, who welcomed the representatives of the "Light in the Mountains," and Mrs. H. H. Tift pronounced a heartfelt grace. Mrs. S. V. Sanford moved a vote of cordial thanks to Governor and Mrs. Hardman for the gracious hospitality, with the assurance that their consideration for the Tallulah Falls school, so beautifully demonstrated, would not give pleasure merely but would prove of real value in the progress of the "Light in the Mountains." This vote was given by acclamation. Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick presented to Miss Garrison Feted.

Miss Sara Garrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Garrison, whose marriage to Paul Emmett Harrison takes place early in March, will be honored at a number of social affairs prior to her marriage.

Mrs. Loy Roberts was hostess recently at a party at her home at 207 Hamilton street, in East Point. The guests were: Misses Clara Young, Kathleen Dunn, Mary Slack, Minnie Vess, Louise Garrison, Nanie Coleman, Corine Beth Brown, Mattie Camp, Corine Hutchinson, Lucille Hutchinson, Grace Cooper, Lillian Holden, Ruth Higgins, Doris Nesbitt, Jewell Winn and Mesdames Earl Higgins, Grover Chambers, Lamar Cochran, Thomas Cochran, Pearl Fowler, H. L. Nesbitt, Cliff Edwards, P. G. Muse and Thomas Cox, W. A. Garrison and W. L. Cooper.

Special Youth Feature.

In line with the special youth feature of the occasion, each one of the announcements were concerned with the work of young Georgia women whether maids or matrons, whether still at school or in the home, in behalf of the "Light in the Mountains." "This is the season," said Mrs. Otley, "when we hear of much needed help from our splendid Young Matrons' Circle of Atlanta, which during the last two years under the able leadership of Mrs. Eugene Harrington produced through her committees over $10,000 in money and material for the school. One of Mrs. Harrington's strongest workers has succeeded her to the head of this group and we welcome heartily tonight Mrs. Bernard Neal, the new president of the Young Matrons' Circle."

Mrs. Neal said that the best evidence of the value which this large group of more than 200 of Atlanta's best known young women attached to the school was the fact that this organization had no other object for its organization activity, though all the members did many other things they were ever ready to respond to the call of Tallulah Falls school. She spoke of the circle's current undertaking which will be a great Extravaganza and Fashion Show to be put on during all of next week at the Paramount theater, with the Young Girls' Circle and the Tallulah Falls school joining in the modeling, and J. P. Allen supplying beautiful and lavish frocks of all kinds. The school would have 50 per cent of all tickets sold outside the box office and the circle hopes for a good sum. Dues of the Young Matrons' Circle are $1 a year, and from these dues and some other efforts there is always a fair check for the February trustees' meeting. Mrs. Neal presented the treasurer of the circle, Mrs. Alice S. Hopkins, who had brought a check for $1,000, which is the regular annual gift of the Young Matrons' Circle to the school. It is much more than this during the year, but are pleased to know that this sum will give a chance in life to a good many mountain boys and girls at our school.

Young Girls' Circle. Young Girls' Circle of Atlanta, which is a group of 24 young women working for Tallulah Falls school, was represented by its president, Miss Marion Hull Smith, and its president-elect, Miss Ruth Rowbotham, who were introduced and presented a check for $150 covering their scholarship for the year, this amount having been earned at a "dollar-dance," given on January 19. Their beneficiary is a pretty young girl now in the senior class and is the second girl they have graduated. The dues of this group are $1 a year. They are modeling in the Young Matrons' Extravaganza at the Paramount theater next week.

Tallulah Falls Juniors. Tallulah Falls Juniors, 24 young girls who are of the junior class at Washington Seminary, were represented by their president, Miss Marion Smith, and secretary, Miss Laura Troutman, who were introduced and presented $50 which they have earned by modeling and in various other ways, as a beginning for their 1930-1931 scholarship of $150. They were sure the rest would be in hand before May 31. Their dues are $1 a year. They are aiding the Young Matrons in the Paramount Extravaganza. Heartly appreciation was expressed.

Athens Young Matrons' Circle. Tallulah school interest among young people is not confined to Atlanta, said the president of the board. "All over Georgia splendid workers are ready to be brought into activity for our school," she presented Mrs. Lamar Rucker, of Athens, trustee of Tallulah Falls school, who reported the successful organization within the past few weeks of a strong Tallulah Falls Circle which began life with 24 charter members, all of whom are well-known young women greatly interested in the school. She presented Mrs. Thomas Hubbard McHatten, president of the new circle, and Mrs.

Miss Ruth Miller To Be Honored At Series of Prenuptial Parties

Miss Ruth Miller and Miss Myra Boynton returned yesterday from a visit of several weeks to Mrs. Eben Hardie and Miss Flora Hardie in New Orleans, where they have been extensively entertained at a round of social gaieties. This week Miss Miller will be entertained at a number of social affairs prior to her marriage to Eben Hardie, Jr., of New Orleans, which takes place Tuesday afternoon, February 24, at the St. Mark's church. Sharing honors with Miss Miller will be the out-of-town guests coming from New Orleans today to visit Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Boynton, and who will attend the wedding, arriving Friday are: Miss Flora Hardie, Miss Adele Jancke, both debutantes in New Orleans this season, the former being the bridegroom's sister, and the latter being a daughter of Commodore Jancke; Eben Hardie, Jr., the bridegroom; and Mrs. J. B. Sanford and Darwin Penner, both of whom are bridesmaids. Arriving Monday will be Mrs. Hardie, mother of the bridegroom; Miss Charlotte Hardie, and William Hardie, sister and brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanford, grandparents of the bridegroom, of New Orleans, who will be at the Biltmore.

Honoring Mrs. Bush. Patron Club of Fulton and DeKalb counties have arranged an entertainment in honor of Mrs. Mary Thomas Bush, worthy grand matron of the S. of G. of Georgia, at the West End Woman's Club Friday, February 27, 9 to 12 o'clock. Invitations have been sent to chapter patrons, who will distribute some to Eastern Star members and their friends. Dancing and bridge will be the order and the evening will contribute entertaining features to the entertainment.

Mildred's Bridge Club. Mildred's Bridge Club met at the home of Miss Mildred Boggs last evening. The last meeting was held at the home of Miss Billie Kelly, to which the four pledges, Misses Mary Frances Warner, Martha Sullivan, Margaret Coyne and Mrs. Eugene Dicker, were invited. Members are: Misses Grace Anderson, Billie Kelly, Catherine Kitzler, Lida Warner, Dorothy Klaitz, Elizabeth Hetzel, Mildred Boggs and Mrs. Frank Coyne.

Mrs. Kay Is Hostess. Weona Bridge Club was entertained at a luncheon recently by Mrs. Courtney Kay at her home on Runyon road. Top score was won by Miss Grady Lane, and consolation was won by Miss Leola Baldwin. Those present were Misses Leola Baldwin, Grady Lane, Irene Panell, Ruby Bowden and Mesdames Courtney Kay, Milton Holcombe, Albert Thornton and Walter Griswold.

Will Erwin and Mrs. Howell Erwin, both of whom are charter members. They took pleasure in presenting a check for $75 realized from their first undertaking which was a card party given at the home of Mrs. J. B. McHatten, which had proven exceedingly pleasant as well as profitable. Mrs. McHatten said that a pilgrimage to the school could be made during the spring, when she was sure their present enthusiasm would be greatly increased. The new circle was most enthusiastically welcomed.

University Pioneers. Mrs. S. V. Sanford introduced Miss Janelle Calhoun, of Washington, Ga., president of the Pioneers' Club, and Miss Janet Jarnagin, the treasurer of this organization who had brought with them a check for $100 as a gift for the Tallulah Falls school. "The resources of our club of school girls are not very great," said Miss Calhoun. "We desire, however, to share in some part in the great educational work so long carried on by the Tallulah Falls school of Georgia. We took pleasure last year in giving $100 to the Students' Aid Foundation to which we all feel very close in interest, and are most delighted at this time to give the same sum to that object of every Georgian's pride and interest, the Tallulah Falls Industrial school." Cordial expressions of thanks were given to the young university sisters and they were urged to make a special visit to the school.

The president expressed the hope that next year would show a representation of many more groups of young people from all over Georgia, to whom the trustees may extend a share in this wonderful work. She called attention to the fact that Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, president eighth district, had been the first to emphasize special organizations of young people for work for Tallulah Falls school, at the district meeting in Washington, D. C., last autumn where she arranged a special conference of young people of all ages for this purpose which was presided over by Mrs. Lamar Rucker. Mrs. S. V. Sanford is enthusiastically in favor of Tallulah work for young people.

Mrs. J. A. Rollison, of Waycross, was greeted with interest as the president of the Waycross Woman's Club, which will be the hostess for the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs at its biennial council in May, 1931, and expressed the hope that everyone present would meet her in Waycross in May.

Votes of sympathy were passed for Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright upon the death of her sister, the late Mrs. William Marshall, and to Mrs. H. M. Nicholes, upon the loss of her son, Morton Nicholes; also to Mesdames S. E. Morgan, Inez Wilkins Jones, Ruthford Lipscomb, Frank Lipscomb and Miss Rosa Woodberry, absent because of illness, and to Mrs. Bolling Jones, who is visiting in Florida and absent from the trustees meeting for the first time in the history of the board.

Those present were: Mesdames John K. Otley, Z. I. Fitzpatrick, W. D. Lamar, H. H. Tift, James E. Hays, A. O. Granger, J. Lindsey Johnson, Lamar Rucker, Price Gilbert, Price Smith, Charles J. Haden, Willard C. Patterson, Elizabeth P. Winship, James E. Dickey, S. V. Sanford, Mrs. Thurman Whitley, of Reynolds; Mrs. A. D. McCurry, of Winder; Mrs. Edna Jarman, of Baxley; Mrs. L. O. Freeman, of College Park; Mrs. Harford L. Green, Zebulon; Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth; Mrs. Ray Cole, of Newnan; Mrs. Howell Mullis, of Cochran; Mrs. John Monaghan, of Pelham; Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens; Mrs. J. W. Hooks, of Gordon, and a few invited guests: Miss Anabel Mathews, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton; Mrs. W. B. Smith, of Tennessee; Mrs. John MacDougall; Mrs. Stewart Brown, of Royston; Mrs. Robert K. Rambo, Mrs. S. F. Boykin, Mrs. Bernard Neal, Mrs. Aleck S. Hopkins, Mrs. A. J. Merrill, Misses Marion Hull Smith, Ruth Rowbotham, Marion Smith, Laura Troutman, Janelle Calhoun, Janet Jarnagin, Mrs. Thomas Hubbard McHatten, Mrs. Will Erwin, Mrs. Howell Erwin, of Athens, and Mrs. J. A. Rollison, president Waycross Woman's Club. With renewed expressions of pleasure for a delightful meeting, and appreciation to Governor Hardman and the valued trustee, Mrs. Hardman, the meeting adjourned.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

A STARTLING SURPRISE. By Thornton W. Burgess.

For careless folk there's little use; They seldom have a real excuse. —Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit felt really foolish when his big cousin, Jumper the Hare, explained to him how he had been fooled by the odor from a tree. He had been so sure that that odor was from Jimmy Skunk's little bag of scent that even after he knew beyond all doubt that the odor belonged to the tree, not to Jimmy Skunk, he still had hard work to believe it. Just to be sure that he was fully convinced of his mistake, Jumper led him to another tree of the same kind, and there again Peter smelled the odor that was so like the scent of Jimmy Skunk. There was no doubt at all that it came from the tree. It was a spruce tree, Peter knew this by the way those little needles crowded all around each little twig.

He remembered the trees from which Farmer Brown's boy had gathered gum, and he was sure that these trees hadn't smelled at all like this. He told Jumper so.

"Of course, they didn't," replied Jumper. "They were a different kind of spruce. They probably were so Red Spruce or Black Spruce. This is the White Spruce, but as I have already told you, it is commonly called the Skunk Spruce, and I guess you know why."

Peter grinned. "I guess I do," said he. "And a very good name it is. I know, of course, that the first plant to blossom in the spring has an odor very like Jimmy Skunk's. You know the one I mean, don't you?"

Jumper nodded. "Of course," said he. "You mean the Skunk Cabbage. It will be poking its little heads up in some places along the Laughing Brook pretty soon now. I am of half a mind to go down to the swamp and see if I can find one now. They do come up as early as this sometimes, and once I have found them I always feel that winter is about over. So, skunk, no smell, I like the Skunk Cabbage."

"So do I," replied Peter. "If you don't mind I will go along with you." Jumper said that he didn't mind, so together they started for a certain swamp place along the Laughing Brook. Jumper clothed all in white and Skunk Spruce, and I guess you know why. An odd couple they made, so much alike yet so unlike. It wasn't just their coats alone that made the difference. Peter was much smaller than his cousin and even for his size he hadn't such long ears as Jumper. Otherwise they looked enough alike to be brothers instead of cousins.

Jumper, being the larger, led the way. It wasn't that he was any more bold or a bit braver than Peter. It was because his hind feet were so long and big that when he jumped he naturally made a much longer jump than Peter could. So Jumper went bobbing along in front, lippy-lippy-lippy, and Peter came bobbing along

CLUB FAVORS BOND ISSUE FOR COUNTY

City Club Would Meet Fulton School Crisis by $500,000 in Bonds.

The City Club of Atlanta Thursday voted unanimously to sponsor a campaign to bring about a special county election to vote on a bond issue of $500,000 for construction and repair of county school buildings.

The action was taken by the club after it had heard a report from a special committee headed by Edgar Watkins, which recommended the bond issue and urged that the club sponsor or assist in sponsoring a movement to have the special election called.

The report of Mr. Watkins' committee asserted that many of the county school buildings were in need of repair, some needed annexes to care for overcrowded conditions, other buildings had been condemned by the grand jury and in still other sections new buildings were needed entirely.

Action by the club, which is composed of several hundred members, many of whom live in the county, was inaugurated last month after Cam Dorsey, president of the school board, had outlined conditions in an address before the club. Mr. Dorsey and Jere A. Wells, superintendent of schools, were present at Thursday's meeting at the Piedmont hotel when the resolution calling on the club to sponsor the movement was offered by President Walter McElreath and adopted unanimously.

The county board early in January was informed by the board of commissioners that, because of the county's present economic stringency, it was forced to reduce the school ap-

Wilkes County Boasts "Special Session Baby"

Returning to the house Thursday after an absence of a week at his home in Washington, Ga., Representative Thomas W. Cozart, one of the Wilkes county members, reported the arrival last Wednesday of the first special session baby. He is Thomas W. Cozart, Jr.

Mr. Cozart is one of the house veterans, now serving in his fourth session and being also member-elect for the regular session. When not legislating he is a cotton merchant at Washington. Mrs. Cozart, mother of the youngest Georgia assemblyman, was the former Miss Rachel Keith, of Canton, Ga.

Youthful Dancer Charms Reviewer At Local Recital

The repetition of Senia Solomonoff's "Christmas Eve in Moscow" at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium Thursday night, featuring a cast of Atlanta dancers, only served to confirm the judgment formed by this reviewer at its first presentation: that Miss Mary Ann Linane, who certainly cannot be more than five years old, is probably the most fetching young ballerina in the city.

Miss Linane, as those who saw the first performance at the auditorium will recall, scored a veritable triumph in the two numbers where she was allowed to fit—as lightly and as gracefully as a Peaseblossom in "A Midsummer Night's Dream"—across the disc of that artificial and very exclusive moon, the spotlight.

It was not so much the technique paraded by Miss Linane on this occasion, for that was necessarily in her immature; it was the radiant personality, the charming, miniature grace, the smile. Every now and then, perhaps, the tiny danseuse became so much preoccupied with the business of dancing that she forgot her smile, but then, as though waking from an exceedingly practical trance, she would suddenly return to herself, switch on the smile, and the audience belonged to her! One is inclined to predict that the stage will lose a very valuable asset indeed when Miss Linane retires to private life, and to the first reader, once more.

Honors must also be accorded to Woodrow Wilson Mosher, who, though not much more than 6 years old, is a tap-dancer on whom even Broadway might pride itself. Others who deserve honorable mention are Margery Bennett, Frances Harwell, Paula DeVoll, Marian Reinhardt, Elisabeth Sims, Coradine Estes, Bernice Cannon, Grace Perrin, Edith McCallie, Maxine Morris, Gwendolyn Robinson and Ada Jackson. "To Spring," a group dance led by Miss Dorothy Alexander, was especially well executed. Madame Lola Menotti again drew much applause for her "Estampe Chinoise," and, as a special feature of the program, gave an interpretation of the late Madame Anna Pavlova's "Dying Swan," as a memorial to that lamented artist. The spectacular "Christmas Eve in Moscow" provided a colorful climax to the program.

HOUSE WILL VOTE ON SHOALS TODAY

Compromise Supporters Apprehensive of Pocket Veto on Latest Proposal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—With final house action on the Muscle Shoals controversy set for tomorrow, sponsors of government operation tonight were apprehensive of a presidential veto of the new compromise bill.

Representative Quinn, democrat, Mississippi, a signer of the conference report, said off the floor efforts of the majority leadership to delay the vote another day indicated a move to set the stage for a pocket veto.

Though declining to predict what course President Hoover might follow, Chairman Snell, of the rules committee, said he thought the measure would be vetoed.

White House officials made it known, however, that reports the president would veto the bill if it reached him were misleading since the president did not know what was in the compromise agreement.

Bearing the signatures of four of its five conferees, the report was presented to the house today by Representative Wurzback, republican, Texas, with notice he would ask for its consideration tomorrow. Republican Leader Tilson and Snell suggested a longer delay to permit members to study the report.

House adoption of the conference report was freely predicted on the democratic side, by many republicans, including Snell. In some democratic quarters Reece's signature was interpreted as forecasting executive approval of the bill.

"I don't know whether there is any organized opposition to the report or not," Speaker Longworth said. "If it is what I think it is I am not very strongly for it."

Wurzback replied that he would not ask consideration of the report before 3 o'clock. This brought charges off the floor by democrats that an effort was being made to prevent the report from reaching the senate before adjournment tomorrow.

If the bill does not reach President Hoover Friday he will be able to block it by a pocket veto.

The last Muscle Shoals bill sent to the White House was given a pocket veto by President Coolidge. Several administration republicans in the senate have predicted the president will not sign a government operation bill.

HUGE BANK SEEN FOR NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The States said late today that New York financial interests, headed by the Chase National bank, would place approximately $3,750,000 new money into the Canal Bank and Trust Company of this city, making it one of the largest and strongest banks in the country.

The Chase National bank of New York, Hayden Stone & Co., the Chase Securities Company and the Harris, Forbes & Co. are among the eastern interests to be associated with the reorganized Canal bank management. James P. Butler, president of the bank, will retire, the States reported, and the Chase National bank will send Oliver Lucas, one of its vice presidents, to become president of the Canal Bank and Trust Company.

Under the plan, it is said, 135,000 new shares of stock underwritten by the New York interests will have a par value of $15 per share instead of $25 as at present, and will have a book value of $22.

Tobacco Firm Officers Charged With Fraud

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Richard Reid Rogers, lawyer and stockholder in the American Tobacco Company, today charged officers and directors of the company with perpetrating a plan to pay themselves a $300,000 bonus through purchase of stock at $25 a share. He said the shares were worth $100.

Rogers filed a motion in state supreme court asking a mandamus to force the company to permit him to inspect its books.

He charged that in June the officers through a "bribe" of $4 extra dividend on old shares obtained approval of issuance of 5,000,000 shares of new stock, 312,000 of which were to be sold at a nominal price "wholly disproportionate with its market value."

Chorines Absent, Trial Of Show Loses Appeal

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Deprived of the presence of 25 pretty defendants, the trial involving the musical revue "Sketch Book" with charges of indecency ceased today to amuse and became instead just another case in law.

After an hour of further examination of Miss Effie Sigler, a motion picture censor and the state's witness, Judge Justin F. McCarthy hurried off to a previous appointment to judge a high school debate. Progress of the trial, slow thus far, will be resumed tomorrow with the show scheduled to close its run here Saturday.

ONLY TWO DUNKERS FOUND IN AD CLUB

Dunkers met another overwhelming defeat Thursday at the Advertising Club luncheon in the eating room of the Stanley hotel.

Of the entire number present at the luncheon, 66, only two were found to side with the dunking adherents.

The club was given a first-hand test. Corn pone and polliwacker were served by the courtesy of L. O. Moseley, manager of the hotel.

At the close of the meeting Herbert Porter, president of the club, asked for a vote, only two dunkers standing.

Mr. Porter said that the famous old southern dish is good either way. He wrote Mr. Porter as follows: "Hearing that the controversy over the proper manner of polliwacker and corn pone may raise its ugly head in your club and believing that it is easier to prevent an argument than to settle one after it has arisen, I am serving your members today hand-made polliwacker and corn pone. The individual either may 'dunk' or 'crumble' the pone."

"Whatever method one may prefer to use in eating this delightful old southern dish, I believe, will lead us to agreeing with Byron that 'nothing bound in sheep equals the original mutton.' The manner of eating (or dunking—if that might be an issue) in no wise destroys the taste of polliwacker and corn pone. It is good either or both ways, and I hope your members enjoy it."

Not only was polliwacker and corn pone served to Ad Club members at luncheon but, to the surprise of Representative Robert E. Hightower, Jr., of Union county, it was served in the main dining room of the Ansley as well.

Entertaining a group of legislative friends at luncheon, Mr. Hightower ordered polliwacker for the soup course. It proved so acceptable that the Upson salon substituted a second bowl for the rest of his luncheon.

Oscar Strauss, Jr., sales promotion manager of Rich's, Inc., was the principal speaker on the program. He was as his subject, "Problems of an Advertising Department During 1931."

Mr. Strauss stressed the importance of readjustments for new conditions as one of the most important essentials to success, and particularly urged truth in advertising. Mr. Strauss was appointed program chairman for March.

Through the courtesy of C. O. Barrett, of the Barrett Food Products Company, samples of soft peanuts and peanut candy were distributed at each place.

Al Capone Ordered To Court Wednesday

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Alphonse Capone, No. 1 on Chicago's list of public enemies, was ordered to appear in federal court next Wednesday to face charges of contempt of court.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson refused to quash the information on the charges, which has been pending nearly two years.

The contempt action was based on Capone's plea that he was too ill to answer a grand jury subpoena. The government charged that Capone was not too ill at the time to attend races in Florida.

M'MILLAN PLANS ARCTIC JOURNEY

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Donald B. MacMillan, arctic explorer, outlined plans today for an expedition into Baffin land and the north polar region next summer.

The expedition, Commander MacMillan said, would be in three sections, the first sailing from Wiscasset, Maine, June 20, to be followed by Dr. Alexander Forbes, of Boston, and Sir Wilfred Grenfell, of London. Three airplanes will be included in the equipment.

MILLIONAIRE DIES IN GLIDER CRASH

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—From inkstands to Icarus proved a path of death today for Emory Davis, 78-year-old millionaire.

Davis, a retired inkstand manufacturer, was killed when a glider with wings like a bird's, which he had spent two years designing and building in secret, crashed 50 feet at Roosevelt field on its maiden flight.

Two years ago the aged millionaire appeared at the field and began building in a little shop. Later he moved to a new hangar. Visitors were unwelcome and he kept his shop locked. Today, with his pilot, Carl Nelson, he pushed the glider out. It had a pair of wings on either side but set in tandem, one behind another. The edges scalloped like feather tips. The glider was a model for a large airplane of the same design he intended to build.

In tow of an automobile, the glider mounted 50 feet. Watchers said the towing cable seemed not to have released properly. The ship did a half loop, throwing Davis out, and landed upside down.

Davis died almost immediately. The pilot was not seriously injured.

BANKS REPORTED IN BETTER SHAPE

Condition of Greatly Increased Liquidation in Country Prevails.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Banks of the country at the opening of 1931 were in a position of greatly increased liquidity because of decreases in the total volume of their outstanding credit and in the proportion of their assets that depend on local situations under the influence of customer relationships.

The federal reserve board in its monthly review of business and finance said this readjustment was the result of the conditions during the 15 months prior to the opening of the present year when there were an unusually large number of bank suspensions. In January there were 197 suspensions as compared with 24 in December and 90 in January, 1930.

"The period of 15 months between October, 1929, and the end of 1930 was one of readjustment and liquidation for the banks of the country as well as of an unusually large number of bank suspensions," the board said.

"At the end of the period the active banks taken as a whole were in a position of greatly increased liquidity, resulting both from a decrease in the total volume of their outstanding credit and a decrease in the proportion of their assets that depend upon local situations and are under influence of the customer relationship."

"The banks' open-market holdings, which are in part in the nature of secondary reserves, on the other hand, increased during the period in relation to their total resources. Furthermore, the liquidation of $5,500,000,000 of loans to the security market made by non-banking lenders also strengthened

Dog Has Legal Right To Bite Man Once

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—An old legal doctrine that a dog is entitled to two bites at a person before being declared dangerous was upheld by the state court of appeals here today.

The court pointed out that where a dog must bite a human being twice before it is declared vicious, the state law provides one bite of sheep, goats or poultry dooms the canine.

The court reversed a judgment for damages obtained by a Los Angeles woman.

The board said the demand for currency which had decreased during the first 10 months of 1930 increased in November and December at more than the seasonal rate. Unsettled conditions, it said, resulted in bank failures and withdrawal of currency from the reserve banks to increase the cash in local banks to meet the increased public demand.

The greater demand than the usual seasonal increase, it said, was felt in the New York, Richmond, San Francisco and Chicago districts.

"In the latter part of January, when the post holiday seasonal decrease in currency usually comes to an end, the volume of money in circulation was still somewhat larger than a year ago, and also $100,000,000 larger than in October, although in an ordinary year, currency in circulation at the end of January is about $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 smaller than in October," the board said.

"It may be estimated, therefore, that an additional amount of cash aggregating between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 is held outside of the treasury and the federal reserve banks as the result of developments in the banking situation in the last two months of 1930."

"The banks' open-market holdings, which are in part in the nature of secondary reserves, on the other hand, increased during the period in relation to their total resources. Furthermore, the liquidation of $5,500,000,000 of loans to the security market made by non-banking lenders also strengthened

WINTER STRIKES HARD THROUGHOUT EUROPE

Many Vessels Hampered by Cold Fog Over Continent.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The raging forces of a bitter winter produced both discomfort and danger in Europe today, with shipping seriously impeded and in some cases imperiled.

The Cunard liner Mauretania, for years the queen of the Atlantic, got caught in a fog and went on a sandbar off Southampton, delaying the arrival of a distinguished passenger, Captain Malcolm Campbell, who set an automobile speed record of 245 miles an hour at Daytona Beach this month and soon will be Sir Malcolm Campbell by virtue of a knighthood, was taken off in a tender and soon the big liner was refloated.

From Esbjerg, in Denmark, came a fragmentary message saying that the 1,486-ton German freighter Annie Hugo Stinnes VI had sprung a leak 20 miles west of Borkum lightship and it was indicated her crew had taken to boats.

A heavy fog hung over the mouth of the Elbe, on the west coast of Jutland, causing the British steamer Cheldale and the Danish ship Fionia to be in collision. The British vessel was towed to Cuxhaven with only a badly damaged stern but the other ship was only slightly damaged in the bow.

The 29 in the crew of the Greek steamer Theotoko reached St. Just, Cornwall, England, this morning after their ship was sunk in collision with an unidentified boat off Land's End last night.

So strong was a gale off Deal that half of the steamer Nurtuten, which stranded and was bisected off Dunegness January 6, broke away from its

SCHROEDER MYSTERY BELIEVED DISPELLED

Dague Tells of Bandit's Death and Secret Burial.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The wife of Walter Glenn Dague, under sentence to die for the killing of Highway Patrol Corporal Brady Paul, said today the condemned man told her that Tom Crawford, brother of Mrs. Irene Schroeder, was wounded fatally in the gun battle in which Paul was slain near here on December 27, 1929.

The whereabouts of Crawford has been a mystery since neither Dague nor Mrs. Schroeder, also condemned to die, have given any enlightening information concerning him.

Mrs. Dague said her husband told her that Crawford was wounded in the back as he sat in the bandit's automobile during the fight with Paul and Private Ernest Monroe.

Mrs. Schroeder and Dague bundled the wounded Crawford into an automobile they took from a resident of Newcastle after the shooting, and sped away to Wheeling, W. Va., and into hiding.

Leaving Wheeling, Mrs. Dague said the prisoner told her, Dague and Mrs. Schroeder took the injured man with them. He died while they were on their way to Parkersburg, W. Va., and the fugitives buried him secretly, Mrs. Dague said.

towing tugs and they were forced to anchor for better weather. On land there was much discomfort. To the biting winds and drenching rains in London there was added a choking fog, which irritated throats and hindered traffic. Heavy snows were reported from Germany, Belgium, Spain, Turkey and northern Italy, with trains and other transport services delayed.

Smithies and Purples Off for G. I. A. A. Tourney at Macon Today

B. H. S. TO PLAY CLARKESVILLE IN FIRST GAME

Tech High Draws Bye. Lanier and Purples Are Favored.

Tech High and Boys' High, two rejected members of the fifth district of the Georgia High School Association, will leave the city early today for Macon, where they will take part in the annual Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association this afternoon. Boys' High will open the afternoon program at 2 o'clock with Clarksville Aggies.

Tech High drew a bye in the first round and will meet Riverside in the second round Friday.

Georgia Military Academy, another Atlanta team, withdrew from the G. I. A. A. early in February and will not compete in the 1931 tournament. G. M. A. had been paired with Riverside in the lower bracket.

Other games of the afternoon round include Gordon and Norman Park at 3 o'clock, Columbus and G. M. C. at 4 o'clock and Benedictine and Barnesville at 5 o'clock.

Two games will be played at night. Madison meets Lanier at 8:30 o'clock and Savannah High plays Monroe at 9:30 o'clock.

In addition to tournament activities, the G. I. A. A. members will hold one of the most important meetings of the year, as four resignations have been filed and will have to be voted on.

Tech High resigned, effective next Tuesday; G. M. A. resigned, effective early in February and Benedictine and Savannah have signified their intention to withdraw after the tournament is over.

The meeting will be called at 11 o'clock, immediately after the last game is over.

W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High, proposes to introduce a motion to adopt the Georgia High School Association constitution and by-laws in order to conform to other prep organizations over the state.

Thirteen Quintets Ready for Play.

MACON, Ga., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The ninth annual G. I. A. A. basketball tournament, sponsored by the Macon Junior Chamber of Commerce, swings into action here tomorrow afternoon with 13 teams entered. Several quintets for far-off cities were on the scene tonight.

Boys' High, Atlanta, and Clarksville Aggies will open the first round of the tournament at 3 o'clock (E. S.

RECORD SEASON FOR 3-YEAR-OLD RACERS IS SEEN

Condition of Stars Moves Trainers to Rosy Reports.

By French Lane.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—The three young three-year-olds with the best reputation and the best young three-year-old filly on form of the last season are so hale and hearty in their winter quarters, according to latest reports, that old-time trainers are beginning to predict that the three-year-old racing of the coming season will be close to a record breaker.

The colts with the best reputations are Jamestown, Equipoise and Twenty Grand. The filly which outfooted a single member of this quarter of crack three-year-olds is spending the winter in either.

When Kentuckians and Virginians hear these excellent health reports they may become a trifle jealous. For each state claims to be the cradle of the thoroughbred horse, yet not a single member of this quarter of crack three-year-olds is spending the winter in either.

Jamestown, generally regarded as the champion two-year-old, is at Hollywood but he didn't have much on Equipoise or Twenty Grand, is at George D. Widener's famous Erdensheim place near Chestnut Hill, Pa. Equipoise, the Bobby Burke's gymnasium but will possibly move out of doors today where Stribling trained for the Sharkey battle.

Pa Stribling has decided to use all white boxing gloves on his program, as he believes this will discourage and eliminate fouls. The referee, fans and all concerned can more readily detect any low blows with the white gloves and there is also less danger of infection to the boxers in case of cuts.

Reservations are coming in from out-of-town, especially from around Palm Beach, Hollywood, Jacksonville and Tampa. Most of the calls are for ringside seats. The opportunity to compare the styles and form of Max Schmeling and W. L. Stribling is bringing a lot and they know what to expect when Mickey Walker and Johnny Risko face each other.

The popular price Pa Stribling has offered has struck a note of response that few fight loving fans can resist. Seeing two world's champions on the same card at $2, $3 and $5 is hard to believe.

No selection of referee has been made yet, but there is a world of the best talent in the game here, so it should not be a difficult task.

Dundee-Nancie Go Signed by "Pa."

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP)—"Pa" Stribling, promoter of the Johnny Risko-Mickey Walker fight here next Tuesday, today announced the signing of Mike Dundee, Rock Island, Ill., and Frankie Nancie, Tampa, for one of the preliminary bouts on the program. Dundee and Nancie are lightweights.

AMERICANS ADVANCE.

HAVANA, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Dave Rose, of Los Angeles, and T. T. Therman, Philadelphia, advanced to the quarter-finals of the Cuban amateur golf championship today. Rose defeated J. J. O'Hare, Havana, 1-up at the 19th green, and Therman disposed of W. Bratten, Havana, 7 and 5.

It is unusual when the four leaders of a two-year-old campaign head into their three-year-old year in such fine condition. Leg and foot ailments and sickness year after year have taken toll. Of course, it is too early to predict that all members of the quartet will escape a winter tragedy of some sort, but right now it looks as though they will go into training with in another 60 days healthy, rugged and as sound as so many dollars.

KNAPP SMILES.

At Mrs. Hertz's Leona farm, Trainer Big Bill Knapp smiles every time somebody asks him about Risque. Other members of the Hertz winter camp forces say the diminutive trainer is already talking about the Oaks triumph Risque is going to score this season.

Riviera May See Battle for Title

NICE, France, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Edward Mayo, representing J. Frank Gould, sailed today for New York in an attempt to arrange a world heavy-weight championship fight on the French Riviera in August. The proposed match would pit Primo Carnera against the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling bout, with Jack Dempsey as referee. Gould, American millionaire, owns several gambling casinos on the Riviera.

WALKER-RISKO INTEREST RISES

All Fighters But Max in Camp and Training.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19.—Interest in the coming Mickey Walker-Johnny Risko battle scheduled for Tuesday, February 24, at the Madison Square Garden stadium, is mounting every day. With the exception of Max Schmeling, who is due in Friday, all the fighters are on the ground and in training.

Mickey Walker still holds forth at Hollywood but is expected to move to Miami Beach later on this week. Risko maintains his quarters at the Bobby Burke's gymnasium but will possibly move out of doors today where Stribling trained for the Sharkey battle.

Pa Stribling has decided to use all white boxing gloves on his program, as he believes this will discourage and eliminate fouls. The referee, fans and all concerned can more readily detect any low blows with the white gloves and there is also less danger of infection to the boxers in case of cuts.

DIXIE WRITERS FAVOR CHANGES IN FOUR RULES

Baseball Writers' Association Honored by Joe Engel at 1931 Meet.

By Ralph McGill.

day. For some reason or other this reporter was chosen to tell in just what high esteem Joe Engel is held by the southern baseball writers. It is pretty high.

Engel, while other owners are cutting salaries and reducing squads, is boosting salaries and bringing in the largest squad that ever reported to a southern club. He will have 75 men in June when spring training begins. The resolution on closed meetings opens in March with Bert Niehoff, former Atlanta manager, in charge.

Southern Writers Adopt Major Rules.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Southern Association of Baseball Writers today voted to adopt the major league rule regarding sacrifice fly balls, to follow the former custom of allowing games won and lost to pitchers, and protested against the practice of Southern league directors in holding closed meetings.

The resolution on closed meetings follows. The Southern Association of Sports Writers in convention at Chattanooga February 19, 1931, do hereby by emphatically protest against the action of President John D. Martin in systematically barring newspapermen from every session in which Southern league owners or directors gather. If directors insist that President Martin take such action, southern sports writers desire to protest against such tactics.

We realize there are certain matters which owners and directors must discuss in executive session. To such sessions sports writers would never seek admission. But in too many instances newspapermen have been taken into confidence of Southern association directors only when it served their interests. We believe the general public should be a partner in baseball with directors as long as the success of their interests are not jeopardized.

We can more intelligently write what occurs at Southern league meetings if we are allowed to get first hand information. We desire that a copy of this resolution be entered into the minutes of this meeting and sent to President Martin and directors of the Southern league.

St. Goddard Takes Lead in Dog Derby

QUEBEC, Canada, Feb. 19.—(UP)—Representing the Eastern Club of Cleveland, Emil St. Goddard, of The Pass, Manitoba, captured the first lap of the 1931 Quebec dog derby today. He established a commanding lead in elapsed time over the remainder of the field for the other two laps to be run Friday and Saturday.

The elapsed times were: 1. Eastern Club, Cleveland, St. Goddard, 3:47.40; 2. Seppala, Ricker, L. L. Seppala, 4:02.50; 3. Brydges, Sproule, E. Brydges, 4:09.10; 4. Pagnetto, G. Givard, 4:20.30; 5. H. I. Sutton, E. S. Russick, 4:24.06.

Advance Request.
Spring is hobbling, hobbling along;
Come on, spring, bring me a song;
Bring me a song of old Hack nicking
One on the back as the runs come in;
Bring me a song of the midiron flicking
The pill that flies for the waiting pin;
Come on, spring, do a highland fling,
Let the echoes ring to the tune of bing,
I'm getting sick of the north wind's sting;
I want the green back in the grass,
I want the blue back in the sky;
I want the scent of sassy-frass
And one more chance for an alibi.

After Twenty Years.
AMONG those engaged in the more active competitive sports it is a question if any one has ever looked better on a tennis court—indoor or out—after 20 years of campaigning than Bill Tilden looks today. He is still remarkably fast and replete with stamina. And his skill seems to remain the same.

At Tilden's debut against Kozeluh I sat with Little Bill Johnston, one of the greatest of all competitors, who made this remark while watching Tilden play: "I can see again what a pair of legs I had to beat in the old days. I've seen that pair of legs get too many returns I thought were impossible. As I look at them tonight there is no great wonder left as to why this happened. The big fellow may find at 38 that his legs will not hold up so well through a week of tournament play, but they are certainly acting well enough tonight."

RECALLING the fact that Little Bill weighed from 115 to 117 when he tackled Tilden from 1919 to 1926, one also wonders how the slender Californian ever overcame such a physical handicap, winning in 1919 and carrying the war to a close finish more than once.

Early Fireworks.
WHEN Miss Virginia Van Wier turned in a 72 at Palm Beach this week she gave notice of another bigger season coming on for women's golf. It will be interesting to see whether she will be the first woman player to break 70 over a tournament course, or in tournament play. Miss Van Wier might easily have come back in 30 for a 70, as she took three putts on the 17th and 18th greens.

The Chicago girl is among the two or three leaders picked by Miss Glenna Collett as quite capable of winning any championship at any time. She has a fine swing with quite enough power to hold her own in a pinch.

It would not be surprising to see Helen Hicks on her way to a big year. This young star has been improving steadily and she also has enough power to tackle any course. Competition in women's golf should be keener this season than ever before, as several young stars have stepped out of the mists and most of the veterans look to be about as good as ever.

The fact that Miss Van Wier got her 72 with the new ball hardly indicates any higher scoring or any increased difficulty in finding the cup.

Five Stars.

IT ISN'T often that one ball club can show five outstanding stars, but Connie Mack can produce this number and here is the reason for two pennants and two world championship ships.

The five are Mickey Cochrane, Grover and Earnshaw, Simmons and Fox. Cochrane, Simmons and Fox are among the best run-makers or run-getters baseball has had in years. They are not only hard, consistent hitters but unusual competitors who are generally there in a pinch.

Grove and Earnshaw star on the defensive side. Last season they worked in more than 90 ball games, a marvelous performance in this day and time.

This combination brings about an even division of strength, offensive and defensive. It is one of the reasons why the Athletics, ready to swing south once more, will be picked by a number of experts to win again, making it three in a row. They will find Washington a top flight opponent in the road and they should also find an improved set of Yankees, provided Joe McCarthy can get a few pitchers to work who may happen to have winning ways. The illness to Phipps won't help but there is a chance now that he will be able to start light training in three or four weeks.

The dispatches report that Babe Ruth shot a 71 at St. Petersburg. Another round like that may find him on the Ryder cup team, facing the British invaders in June.

What George Washington's father said to him was probably this: "If you had used a closed stance and an overlapping grip you could have saved at least three strokes in cutting down that tree."

PETRELS START DIAMOND WORK; PROSPECTS GOOD

Strong Squad Seen for First Dixie League Season.

By Jack Troy.

Oglethorpe's baseball squad opened work Thursday, looking toward a strong showing in the newly formed Dixie baseball league, which embraces Tech, Georgia, Florida, Mercer and Auburn, as well as the Petrel school.

Eight players, three of whom derived themselves of another year of college competition by engaging in too many semi-pro games last summer, were missing from the championship team of last year, and Coach Frank Anderson, frankly faced one of the toughest assignments of his coaching career.

Claud Herrin, star third baseman, and Charley Mitchell, pitcher, represent the nucleus around which Coach Anderson will build his 1931 nine.

Frank Anderson, Jr., reserve second baseman, is a good bet for the keystone sack, with Parker Bryant, the leading candidate for first base. A merry battle is in prospect between Jack Moore and Whiteley for the shortstop position.

For the outfield Coach Anderson has Sam Baker, Kid Golden, Salmon and Higgins, the latter pair being sophomores. Baker and Golden appear to have the inside track for two of the outer garden posts, while the other two will fight it out for the other.

Whaley and Craven, a sophomore, are the leading catchers, while prospects for a strong pitching staff, with Mitchell, Walker, Evans, Blackwell and Syper ready for duty, are excellent.

The Petrels will play 10 games at home and 10 on the road. The complete schedule follows:

April 6-7—Georgia at Hermance Field.
April 10-11—Auburn at Hermance Field.
April 13-14—Auburn at Auburn.
April 17-18—Tech at Grant Field.
April 20-21—Mercer at Hermance Field.
April 24-25—Florida at Hermance Field.
May 1-2—Florida at Macon.
May 4-5—Florida at Gainesville, Fla.
May 8-9—Tech at Hermance Field.
May 11-12—Georgia at Athens.

What the Market Did.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The stock market saved its best efforts for the last hour today.

There was a slow upward movement during the morning and early afternoon, with rather pronounced rallies in steel and rubber stocks, but the rise frequently seemed labored and the volume tapered off.

In the late trading, however, activity increased and prices advanced to levels of the day. Net gains averaged a little more than two points.

Reports that some of the steel plants, chiefly in the West, were expanding operations to handle orders from the automobile manufacturers figured largely in the market's display of confidence.

It is reported that some large interests have been selling during the rally, apparently with the idea of preventing further gains in the market of hand, and also that the short interest has not been entirely convinced of the present market's durability.

But resistance to declines has been obvious and many professionals have been content to ride with the rising tide.

American and United States Steel were leaders, the former rising 4 points to a new 1931 high and the latter 3. Market strength developed in the Republic and other steel issues.

International Telephone was heavily bought, advancing 2 points. Rails and other common stocks were the smallest in two weeks.

Developments in the credit markets comprised an advance of one-eighth of one per cent in bankers' acceptances, reflecting further offerings from banks, and an unusually large volume of prime commercial paper, coming mostly from the interior.

Federal reserve brokers' loans increased $25,000,000 during the week covered by the figures on borrowings for the first time since late summer loans have shown a gain.

There was a striking indication of the change that has come over speculative sentiment.

What was mostly quiet, but finally made net gains of 3-4 to 1-4 cents in the later deliveries. Corn's advances of a cent were in response to a sharp drop in country offerings.

Cotton, after making new highs for the year, met realizing and lost 2 to 5 points net.

There was little of note in foreign exchanges, except the continued rise of the Spanish peseta.

supreme court by the defendants in the oldest case on the supreme court ticket, Assistant Attorney General T. W. Greer, Jr., of New York City.

In commenting on news dispatches from Washington stating that the case, filed in 1903, is resting comfortably on its feet, Greer said he will lose its ranking soon, Mr. Greer said that the matter was revived more than a year ago when the bond was made good by the payment of the possibility of future damage claims.

The case was practically settled long ago, but is maintained in its present position for technical reasons. Sure, so, in the event of trouble again, the court will be in a position to

Texan Calls Senator Caraway Letter 'Contemptible, Insulting'

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The New York World today quoted letters indicating that Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, of Arkansas, had cruelly terminated correspondence with a critic of his by a policy under the misapprehension that the critic was a negro.

G. G. Halliburton, Fort Worth (Tex.), wrote Caraway:

"...and it was white people that made it. But the rest of you, if they had gotten it, would have been fed also. It is strange that a negro always finds something to complain about, although his immediate wants are cared for."

"I should be very glad indeed if you would confine your correspondence to people of your own race."

away censuring him and his colleague, Senator Joe T. Robinson, on the grounds that in past years of severe drought "there was no relief." Red Cross aid had been extended to Texas. The senator's reply, dated February 2 and written on senate stationery, was quoted as follows:

"I have your letter in which you complain about wanting hungry people fed and talking about having seen hungry people in west Texas. I am sorry that you are so ignorant as to make this statement. I am sorry that you made this to this government for relief was made for drought sufferers in Texas."

February 16 was quoted as characterizing the senator's letter as "undignified, contemptible and insulting and suggesting that he should do better than to make a charge of this kind on the basis of race, color or previous condition of servitude." The answer suggested Caraway's retirement to private life would gain public gratitude.

The exchange of letters was made public here by friends of Halliburton as it left the city for Texas after a week. The friends also said that copies of the correspondence had been sent to all members of the senate.

On First Tour,
Here Wednesday

The present tour by Roxy and his gang, which is being conducted throughout the country as a benefit for the Scottish Rite Hospitals for Crippled Children, and which brings the famous organization of four score artists to the Fox theater next Wednesday, is the first time, according to Roxy himself, that his entire gang and one of his own orchestras have been heard outside of New York, except in the city of New York.

It was over the air, through the mammoth Roxy hours, that the gang became famous. Roxy's familiar "Hello, everybody," is one of the most popular phrases in the air and he has long since heard and hear him and his long list of famous artists in the flesh is an infamy that comes only because he is so anxious to provide entertainment for the crippled children's hospitals. Incidentally, Roxy himself has given his services throughout the city free of charge. He draws a salary of exactly nothing.

Wednesday's arrests for alleged violation of traffic ordinances, according to records at police station, were as follows:

J. W. Thomas, Norcross, reckless driving.

J. H. Heard, 84 Houston street, reckless driving.

W. C. Owens, College Park, blocking traffic.

J. E. West, 344 Sixth street, reckless driving.

G. Cox, 640 Cherry street, reckless driving.

W. P. Morris, 627 Argonne street, drunk and reckless driving.

Preston Woods, 816 Greenwood avenue, reckless driving.

The performances next Wednesday (Tuesday) night, at 2:30 and 8:15 o'clock, are given by the Yaaarb temple, the Fox management having given them the use of the theater for that day. Reserved seats are now on sale and may be secured at a special low price at the theater, Jackson 448, or at Cable Piano Company.

BIG RAIL MERGER

BOSTON, Feb. 19.—(P)—President W. W. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania railroad, today advocated a merger of the Boston and Maine and the New York, New Haven and Hartford roads.
